SHARP CLASHES IN PALESTINE

ARABS ATTACKING MILITARY POSTS

CONTINUE BOMBING IN MANY DISTRICTS

Jerusalem, May 29.

After two days' respite from wearing steel helmets, this heavy gear has been resumed by police and troops following a number of serious incidents.

A bomb exploded during the night in the District Commissioner's offices at Haifa, damaging furniture and smashing windows. Several arrests were made.

Several bombs exploded in and around Acre.

A party of British constables had a narrow escape when patrolling by automobile south of Jaffa. They were fired upon from ambush, and two bullets passed through the car without hitting the occupants.

A party of Royal Scots Fusiliers, guarding a post near Jaffa, were heavily stoned by Arabs. They opened fire and wounded two of their assailants.

Sniping and bomb-throwing also prevalent in Jaffa, where the military and police were compelled to use Lewis guns to quell disorders.

A large band fired upon the military railway patrol at Raselmin, from both sides of the line, but fled when the troops opened fire.

An Arab was severely wounded at Haifa through the explosion of a bomb which, it is believed, he was carrying.

A number of Arabic and Jewish newspapers have been suspended for spreading allegedly false information.

Martial Law Nearer

Jerusalem, May 29.

British troops fought pitched battles with Arabs at Jaffa, Ramles and Haifa to-day, bringing martial law closer and causing the authorities to be ordered to take steps to be aided to the cities' defensive equipment.

It is officially reported that Arabs attacked a military patrol near Jaffa and the troops opened fire with machine-guns, inflicting several casualties.

Numerous Arabs were wounded when troops guarding the Ramles post office fired a volley as demonstrators attacked them with rifles and bombs. The District Commissioner's office at Haifa was bombed. There were no casualties.

There were several cases of bombing of troops and police in Jaffa, but no casualties have been reported.

Developing Tel Aviv

Jerusalem, May 29.

A big corporation has been formed to handle lightening and landing business at Tel Aviv.

The development of the port has been hastened by the strike of workers at Jaffa where steamers are no longer calling.

Situation Improved

London, May 29.

The Dominions Secretary made statement in the House of Commons to-day on the situation in Palestine. He said that while some measure of disturbance was still reported in various parts of the country, he was glad to say that the general situation had shown a distinct improvement in the last two or three days.

Mr. Malcolm MacDonald referred with regret to the shooting in the old city of Jerusalem yesterday of a British constable, and went on to state that the High Commissioner was satisfied as to his disposal were at present adequate.

Reports that another additional battalion had been sent to Palestine from Egypt were without foundation. Alluding to the announcement in the press that tear gas was being held in reserve by the Palestine police for use in certain contingencies in suppression of civil disorder he informed the House that the High Commissioner had published a statement for the information of the public in Palestine reassuring them as to the non-existence of any such gas.

The nature of the vapour to be employed and explaining its use had only been authorised should the occasion arise in order to avoid, as far as possible the necessity for employing measures for preservation of law and order that might result in loss of life or serious injury.

POLICE AND ARAB RIOTERS FACE ONE ANOTHER

A tense moment in the streets of Tel Aviv above, shown lines of police, supported by mounted men, preparing to disperse a dangerous mob. It is in such situations as this that snipers and bomb-throwers join in the fight against authority. Note police officers' shields, with which they guard themselves against hail of missiles thrown by rioters.

SPEEDING ACROSS ATLANTIC

QUEEN MARY LOGS
747 MILES IN DAY

CANNOT CLAIM RECORD

London, May 29.
Reuter's special correspondent aboard the Queen Mary reports that the ship has logged 747 miles in the last day. Her average speed was 29.88 knots per hour.

The Normandie's best distance on her Atlantic voyages was 744 miles in a day.

However, the Queen Mary's time cannot be called a record for, owing to the fact that the clocks were put back an hour the big ship actually had twenty-five hours in which to beat the French liner's mileage.

Captain Sir Edgar Britten declared himself completely satisfied with his ship's performance.

He is pleased, too, with the weather remarks: "We seem to say the Atlantic is nine months water and three months fog."

A stowaway has been found aboard. He is Frank Gardner, 41-year-old Cardiff man, who was discovered after the ship sailed. He is working his passage as a kitchen hand.

NOT AFTER RECORD

Aboard the Queen Mary, May 29.
A fresh north-east breeze is blowing to-day and the sea is moderate.

The Queen Mary travelled 747 miles in the last 24 hours, averaging 29.88 knots per hour, and she thus has an excellent chance of a record since her engines are still not let out.

However, the master adheres to his original assertion that he is making the voyage according to a schedule, and is not attempting a record until the engines have had a thorough work-out.

AMY MOLLISON REWARDED

ROYAL AERO CLUB
GOLD MEDAL

London, May 29.

Mrs. Amy Mollison, famous woman flier, has been awarded the Royal Aero Club's gold medal in recognition of her many record-breaking flights throughout the Empire.

Mrs. Mollison's last flying venture was to Capetown. She smashed the record for that flight in a solo dash from Lympne, and a few days later flew back to England and bettered Tommy Rose's time for that journey as well.

SEAL OF OFFICE

London, May 29.

Mr. W. G. Ormsby-Gore, newly-appointed Secretary of State for the Colonies, received the seal of his office from His Majesty the King this morning and later attended the Privy Council meeting.

U.S. MONEY TO HELP FRANCE?

TALK OF LOAN OF
$1,000,000,000

DEVALUATION DANGERS

Paris, May 29.
Financial circles here are discussing the possibility of the new French Government seeking a $1,000,000,000 loan from the United States in an effort to solve France's tangled fiscal problems.

However, the success of such possible negotiations is being questioned because of the Johnson Act which prohibits the United States from making loans to countries defaulting in debt.

In this connection it has been recalled that the French Premier, Edouard, M. Leon Blum, recently hinted his readiness to settle the French War debt.

It is considered likely, in any event, that the United States would demand a gold clause guarantee for the loan. In many quarters the belief is being expressed that such a loan is impossible since French devaluation talk is growing. Some monetary die-hard have even said that devaluation might solve the situation.

The Bank of France's statement for the week ended May 22 has indicated that the flight of capital from France has eased. However, there are conservative financial editors here, who hitherto have not mentioned devaluation, now openly discussing its possibilities as a remedy for financial ills in view of the incoming Government's public works programme.

Financial experts say that an internal loan is materially, and psychologically impossible due to the scarcity of funds on the Paris market.

ST. LOUIS CONTINUES TO LEAD

GIANTS PRESSING CLOSE

TIGERS BEST WHITE SOX

New York, May 29.

The New York Giants played the Braves to-day, making up somewhat for their double-header defeat yesterday by scoring fifteen runs on twenty hits, while the Braves went through a listless nine innings in which they hit but twice and could not score a run. There were no errors.

Chuck Klein homered for Philadelphia against Brooklyn and helped to win the game, ten to two. The Phillies hit eleven times. And they had five errors. Brooklyn hit six, and had three errors.

St. Louis kept pace with New York, and incidentally its position at the top of the League, by beating Pittsburgh, nine to seven. Collins and Mize homered, and turned eight hits into nine runs. St. Louis was lucky to win. They had three errors.

Pittsburgh could only score seven on fifteen hits.

Chicago Cubs, meanwhile, won on Cincinnati's errors. They hit seven to score eight runs. The Reds hit seven and only scored one. Cubs had one error.

There was only one game in the American League to-day. Detroit scored a four to three win over the White Sox, hitting eleven, one of them Goslin's homer, to eight. Chicago had no errors, the Tigers one.

COMMODITY TRADING

SENATE APPROVES CONTROL BILL

Washington, May 29.

The Senate to-day passed the Commodity Exchange Control Bill, which aims at regulating trading in American commodities.

Senator Ellison D. Smith, Chairman of the Agriculture Committee, withdrew his amendments in connection with the control of cotton trading, but declared he would continue during the next session.

VISITING HONGKONG

coupled with the mounting hoarding of capital. Such an effort, they say, would be certain to lead to the new Government's defeat and end in market paralysis.

As an illustration, they pointed out that the Bank of France's losses over 14 months totalled 25,000,000,000 francs. Also savings banks deposits declined by 900,000,000 francs, while it is estimated that 40,000,000,000 in notes and gold are being hoarded.

Japan Asked To Assist In Narcotic War

PENALTIES FOUND INADEQUATE

BIG TRAFFIC IN CHINA

Geneva, May 29.

The Opium Committee of the League of Nations has passed a resolution requesting the Japanese Government "to redouble its efforts and take such action as may be necessary, to apply to all persons under Japanese jurisdiction, wherever they may be, who engage in the illicit traffic in or manufacture of narcotic drugs, penalties which are likely to act as effective deterrents."

The Committee has based its appeal on the fact that the situation in China represents "not only a serious menace to China, but also to the world."

"The seriousness of the situation in China is partly due to the fact that the maximum penalties which can be imposed under Japanese law, on traffickers of Japanese nationality have proved totally inadequate to serve as deterrents to prevent the illicit traffic."

Black Legion Inquiry

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY DISCLOSED

Detroit, May 29.

Five separate investigations of alleged Black Legion crimes moved forward to-day, while attorneys massed evidence of federal violations which, it is hoped, will draw federal authorities into the case.

The principal inquiry is centred in Pontiac, Michigan, where officials are appealing to the Michigan Attorney General, Mr. Crowley, for state assistance, following reports that at least four high officials of Oakland County, including the Prosecutor, are Legion members.

The Detroit Prosecutor, Mr. McCrea, is asking whether the mailing of pamphlets designed to inflame religious and racial hatred constitutes a violation of postal regulations. If it does this may allow the Federal Government to act against the Legion. Detroit is also probing the allegation that a women's auxiliary to the Legion exists. Forty-five women members have been found, it is reported. However, the chief function of the auxiliary seems to be tea parties, at which the extermination of human Catholics is discussed.

JOINS FIGHT FOR FREDDIE

FATHER FLYING TO LOS ANGELES

New York, May 29.

Mr. Llewellyn Bartholomew, father of Freddie, the young English screen star, arrived here to-day aboard the Bremen.

He will fly to Los Angeles at once to seek "a peaceful settlement" in the suit his wife, Freddie's mother, has brought against his sister, Freddie's aunt, for custody of the boy.

Miss Bartholomew has reared Freddie since his babyhood.

LYDA ROBERTI WITH OAKIE

LIKELY TO SUCCEED THELMA TODD

Los Angeles, May 29.

Miss Lyda Roberti, former Shanghai leader, has signed to team with Jack Oakie in "Champagne Waltz," and will start work immediately.

It is reported that Miss Roberti is likely to succeed the late Miss Thelma Todd, who died in mysterious circumstances recently, as Patsy Kelly's running mate.

SEAMEN END STRIKE

New York, May 29.

The seamen's strike, affecting the U. S. Line and the Panama-Pacific Line, and which has been in progress for weeks, has been settled at last.

OPENS HOUSE TO AN EMPEROR

Sir Elly Kadoorie, the noted financier, has thrown open his London residence for the use of Emperor Haile Selassie and his suite.

SELASSIE LANDS AT GIBRALTAR

WARM WELCOME TO EMPEROR

ON HIS WAY TO LONDON

Gibraltar, May 29.

The Emperor of Ethiopia landed to-day from H.M.S. Capetown to-day. He was enthusiastically welcomed at the entrance to Government House by the Governor of the fortress, with whom he lunched.

The Gordon Highlanders, on guard duty, presented arms as the Negus passed.

QUEST OF SIR ELLY KADOORIE

London, May 29.
The Ethiopian Legation started to-day that Emperor Haile Selassie, who is due in London next Wednesday, will be the guest of Sir Elly Kadoorie, whose house in Prince's Gate, a few doors from the Legation, has been placed at the disposal of the Ethiopian monarch.

The Negus will keep in close touch with the Legation.

Sir Elly, founder of Messrs. E. S. Kadoorie and Company, Hongkong and Shanghai, and Sir Elly Kadoorie and Sons, is at present in the Far East.

H.K. Pension Law Being Amended

POWER TO DISALLOW WILL BE AFFECTED

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend further the law relating to pensions.

It is explained that Clause 2 of this Bill when enacted will repeal sub-section (2) of section 5 of the principal Ordinance, No. 21 of 1932, which provided that no officer would be granted a pension, gratuity or other allowance without a certificate from an appropriate superior officer to the effect that he has discharged the duties of his office with such diligence and fidelity as to justify the grant.

That provision which is to be found in the majority of Colonial Pension laws was derived from section 8 of the Superannuation Act, 1859, (22 Vict. c. 26), which was repealed recently by section 5 of the Superannuation Act, 1935 (25 and 26 Geo. 5, c. 23). A corresponding repeal in Colonial legislation has been requested by the Secretary of State in paragraph 7 of his circular despatch of the 4th January, 1936.

The effect of the repeal will be that the position will then be governed by the further provision, which is contained in section 5 (3) of the principal Ordinance, that where it is established to the satisfaction of the Governor in Council that an officer has been guilty of negligence, irregularity or misconduct, the pension, gratuity or other allowance may be reduced or altogether withheld.

Clause 3 will delete from section 9 of the principal Ordinance the reference to the approval of the Secretary of State, which deletion was suggested in paragraph 8 of the Circular despatch.

The Secretary of State wishes it to be understood that the practice of submitting such withholdings or reductions to him for approval shall be continued in the case of officers appointed by him or whose appointments are subject to his general or special approval, but that it will be unnecessary to continue it in the case of subordinate local officials who are appointed by the Colonial Government.

SHELLS A MINUTE!

GUN MAKES FLEET SAFE FROM AIR

THE BRITISH ADMIRALTY IS EMBARKING ON A BIG SCHEME TO MAKE THE ENTIRE FLEET PROOF AGAINST AIR ATTACK.

The decks of every battleship and cruiser will be reinforced with an extra layer of armour plating and vulnerable points will be specially strengthened.

Unnecessary equipment will be removed from the top deck to make room for anti-aircraft guns of the Admiralty's own design, reputed to be the finest in the world.

These guns have eight barrels, each of which can fire 200 shells a minute; thus each gun can pump 1,600 shells a minute at an aerial attacker.

THE OFFENSIVE

The Admiralty believes that when this re-equipment is finished it will be impossible for an enemy plane effectively to bomb a British warship.

At the same time, so that warships can take the offensive against enemy planes as well as put up an adequate defence, all battleships and cruisers are to be equipped with aeroplanes of their own—two to a battleship, one to a cruiser.

Lion Kills Tamer As 1,000 Watch

Paris, May 18.

CHARLES HULIN, lion tamer, lost his life to one of his beasts at a menagerie in Paris to-night as nearly a thousand men, women and children watched.

The performance in the Place de la Nation was ending when suddenly one of the lions named Choura leaped at Hulin and seized his head.

Women fainting, children crying in terror, assistants tried to beat off the animal. In vain. Five minutes passed before Choura, growling fiercely, was driven away and the body was recovered.

Duchess's Niece Christened 'Jelisaveta'

Belgrade, May 20.

"JELISAVETA"—Serbian for Elizabeth—was the name given to-day to the three-weeks-old daughter of Princess Olga and Prince Paul, Regent of Jugo-Slavia. She is a niece of the Duke and Duchess of Kent, who went specially to Belgrade for the birth on April 7. Prince Olga and the Duchess of Kent are sisters.

The baby princess was christened to-day at the White Lodge, Prince Paul's all-white palace in the Belgrade suburbs, by Orthodox Serbian patriarch Dr. Varnava.

Queen Mary and the Duke of Kent, uncle of the baby, are two of the godparents.

Mother and father were present at the ceremony, at which Queen Marie of Jugo-Slavia, dressed in white, held the baby.

America Honours War Dead

New York, May 30.

Memorial Day, devoted to honouring the memory of the nation's war dead, was observed to-day in northern states of the United States.

Southern States do not participate in the observance, because the day originally was dedicated to northern soldiers who died in the war with the Southern Confederacy over the issues of slavery and cessation from the Union.

New York held its usual parade in which surviving soldiers of the Civil War occupied places of honour.

Similar parades were held in virtually every city in the north. The custom of decorating the graves of war dead was followed here as well as in cemeteries on foreign soil.

The first Memorial Day, or Decoration Day as it is known in some states, was held in 1868 by an order of Commander-in-chief John A. Logan, of the Grand Army of the Republic, organization of northern civil war veterans, designating May 30 "for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defence of their country during the late rebellion."

Rhode Island made it a legal holiday in 1874, Vermont in 1879, and New Hampshire in 1877. By 1910 it was a legal holiday in all states and territories except Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Texas. In Virginia, May 30 is observed as a Confederate Memorial Day. June 3, the birthday of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, is observed as Confederate Memorial Day in Louisiana and Tennessee; April 26, in Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi and May 10 in North Carolina and South Carolina.—United Press.

Mother Consents To Wedding She Stopped

Grace Edith Laughton, aged nineteen, fined £5 recently for making a false statement at a registrar office in order to get married, told the East Ham magistrates subsequently, when summoned for failure to pay the fine, that her mother, who topped the marriage, had given her consent. She was married on May 15.

She had represented to the registrar that she had her mother's consent.

An offer to pay ten shillings was accepted. The case was adjourned for one month.

WHY HE WANTS A DIVORCE

WIFE'S CRAZE IS TOO EXPENSIVE

PARIS, MAY 28. IN THE MATRIMONIAL COURT FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF THE SEINE, THE WELL-KNOWN BARRISTER MAITRE JEAN LOUIS AUJOL HAS JUST PLEADED ONE OF THE STRANGEST DIVORCES EVER PRESENTED.

He represents a city business man (under French law names may not be published in divorce suits) who has separated from his wife and seeks dissolution of the marriage because of her incurable passion for consulting fortune-tellers regarding every phase of their lives!

One of the complaints was that though the husband was well-to-do he could not stand the expense incurred by his wife in consulting fashionable clairvoyants and other seers whose fees ranged around 500 francs a time.

DISMAL PREDICTIONS

He also urged that life in the home circle had become impossible for him owing to this weakness of his wife.

When he undertook financial transactions on the Bourse that he felt sure would bring profit, he was faced with the contrary predictions of the oracles his wife had consulted. Then, too, the predictions were generally so dismal that his wife's health suffered, and in consequence he had to pay heavy doctor's bills.

Even when he had made plans for the annual holiday, the wife came back from the favourite fortune-teller with the prediction that either the place or the date chosen would bring misfortune.

The only thing the fortune-tellers could not tell her was that they would bring to her and her husband the misfortune of breaking-up a home that had been happy until this craze came to the wife.

Not unnaturally the court asked for time to consider this entirely novel basis for a divorce, and between now and the next hearing the judge will interview the parties in the hope of reconciling them by inducing the wife to give up her passion for prying into the future in crystals or through the cards of the fortune-tellers.

Radiophone Annihilates Distance

Now that the radio-telephone service has been completed and is in full working order—there, Australia has just been taking stock of its use.

The Commonwealth post office reports that in the past year:

A call of 19,000 miles was made from Sydney to Valparaiso, via London and Buenos Ayres—with perfect reception.

Call from Sydney to London to San Francisco and to South Africa have been frequent and regular.

One call from Los Angeles to a Sydney broadcasting station occupied 53 minutes. It was the longest long distance talk ever made by any one person, and at current rates, would have cost about £180.

A conference call from London to Australia embraced Johannesburg, Bombay, Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide and Perth. All spoke just as if round a table.

7,000 CALLS

Since the radio-telephone system was opened, there have been 7,000 calls between Australia and the outside world as far afield as Chile, the Saar, Finland, Hungary and Palestine, says Austral News. The last step to the banishment of isolation is the extension of the service to Tasmania, which has just been made.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSON SERMON

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Hongkong SUNDAY'S SERVICE

The subject of the lesson Sermon in all churches of Christ, to-morrow, May 31, will be: Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alms Mesmerism and Hypnotism. Denounced.

The Golden Text will be: "They that observe living vanities forsake their own mercy." (Jonah 2:8).

Among others, the following citations from the Bible will be read: "And a vision appeared to Paul in the night; There stood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying, Come over into Macedonia, and help us. And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavoured to go into Macedonia, assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us for to preach the gospel unto them. (80: 15-17, 20).

And it came to pass, as we went to prayer, a certain damsel possessed with a spirit of divination met us, which brought her masters much gain by soothsaying.

The same followed Paul and us, and cried, saying, These men are the amaze them to know that many people, including famous artists and competent art critics, regard modern sartorial fashions as infinitely preferable to most of the old-fashioned ones that are praised so strongly. How anyone can think that modern riders in Hyde Park look less attractive than did the Victorians in their stiff get-up passes my comprehension. Slovenliness is detestable in any form. But there is nothing slovenly in the smart and vivid riding attire worn by most young people these days in Rotten Row. On the contrary, their charming and suitable costumes make the Victorian survivors look frumpish.

MEN, WOMEN, & HATS

Women's Comic Little Hats

Though I feel that a large volume of public opinion may be against me, I will even go so far as to admit to admiring the latest feminine vogues in hats. These comic little concoctions, about the size of jam tarts, stuck on top or on the side, of a pretty girl's head are to my mind quite delightful. No Nell Gwynn cartwheel affair, with a perimeter of several yards, ever conveyed the same suggestion of port audacity or coyness. Yet the fair wearers somehow manage to preserve an unconscious self-consciousness that is taken in conjunction with these humorous little top-knots, altogether enchanting. Imagine even the most graceful and self-possessed man, if you like, an actor of the first distinction, parading down Bond Street in anything like the masculine equivalent of one of those dinky feminine microscopic hats. He would be totally unequal to carry-off the situation for ten seconds. When it comes to sartorial adventure, or a sense of suppressed fun in clothes, women beat us every time.

Women care about as much for the old Sir Walter Gilberts and their criticism as the Atlantic Ocean did for Mrs. Partington and her venerable mop. Maybe men will take heart from their fine example, and continue to wear soft hats in defiance of the whole College of Hatters. The latter gentlemen had better beware.

I can think of only one genuine bowler, in recommendation of the bowler. Lined with guaranteed Sheffield steel, they might conceivably be of some use in an air raid. But, in that event, why not get the whole hog, and wear your old Army tin hat at once?

The Chun-shing Students' Association, organised by the students of the Chun-shing Institute of Commerce, under the direction of Dr. S. F. Lam, Ph.D., will have its opening ceremony on Sunday at 4 p.m. in the hall of the Institute, and a concert will be held in the evening to celebrate the occasion. Dr. S. F. Lam, Mr. Peter H. Sin and Messrs. Pan Kit-pang and Peter H. Sin have been elected Hon. Presidents, Dr. P. C. Tsang, Dr. S. L. and Messrs. C. S. Kwok, Y. C. Lee, and W. C. Wong advisers, and Mr. H. T. Li director, of the Association.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET UPWARD YESTERDAY

New York, May 29.
Swan, Culbertson & Fritz Dow Jones summary of yesterday's market:—The market to-day advanced from one to three points, but conditions were dull with some care-holiday trading. Steel shares responded to the outlook regarding increased June demand and in anticipation of an increase in third-quarter prices. Railroad stocks were dull, but strong in carloadings reaching a new high mark for the year. Utility securities were better. Copper issues rose on reports of improved buying. Equipment, building, chemical and numerous special issues advanced. The market for bonds was higher. Stocks on the Curb Exchange were upward, led by utility securities.

Swan, Culbertson & Fritz Wall Street Journal comment on 28/5 market:—"The decrease in brokers' loans speaks well for the market's technical position, suggesting that last week's rally was not induced by an underlying stock market. Radio Corporation's preferred issues seem to be more attractive as a speculative medium than its common issues, although the latter is mentioned as a likely speculative vehicle. The Public Service Corporation of New Jersey should have encouraging earnings over the coming months. It is understood that the Republic Steel Corporation's profits are better than earlier in the year. There is an increasing demand for housing and mill stocks, particularly cement, roofing and building material issues."

S. C. & F. New York office cables: Stocks: The market was under holiday influence, but it acted as if higher prices will be seen in the near future. The Commercial Credit Company earned $2.25 per share for the 4 months ended April 30, against $1.58 per share during the corresponding period of last year. The Sorenson-Vacuum Company earned $11.700,000 for the 4 months ended April 30, including $2,750,000 extraordinary income, against $1,950,000 during the corresponding 4 months of last year. Drilling costs are now amortized. Pittsburgh steel scrap prices have been reduced by 25 cents per ton. The Federation of Labour reports that unemployment in April totalled 11,506, 000 persons against 12,183,000 the previous month. Bank Clearings are up 0.8 per cent. Cotton: Hedging and realizing were readily absorbed. Demand is broadening and prices will probably move higher if drought conditions continue in the Eastern Belt. There is a better demand for textiles. Forwardings to mills during the past week amounted to 210,000 bales as compared with 200,000 bales the previous week. Wheat: Early in the day the market displayed strength on continued dry conditions in the North West, but we expect prices to decline on any relief. The late cashness was due to the passage of the Exchange Control Bill by the Senate. Rubber: The market is steadier, but is without any special feature.

The Softwoods Planted in 1924 Are Fast Approaching for REALIZATION

In 1924 the first softwood trees were planted for the pioneer investors in N.Z.P.F. To-day, after only 12 years, those trees have grown to commercial size and the crop is fast approaching for Realization.

And, year by year, as the 1925, 26, 27 and subsequent plantings mature, more and more pine acreage will become realizable... a constant Realization of perpetual forests.

A $11,000,000 COMPANY

So important is this work that a separate bondholders' realization Company has been organized... N. Z. Forest Products Limited.

Those early bondholders will soon begin realizing on the investment which they made in afforestation. The same opportunity which they saw then is yours to-day.

BRITAIN'S NEW NAVAL RIFLE PERTURBS U.S. NAVAL EXPERTS

MAY MAKE ARMOUR OBSOLETE

Washington, May 25.

Dispatches from London saying the British had perfected a naval rifle capable of piercing armour plate twelve inches thick has caused some members of the House Appropriations Committee to doubt the wisdom of building the two new battleships the Navy Department wants. They indicated their intention to call naval experts for questioning before investing U.S.$80,000,000 to U.S.$100,000,000 in new capital ships.

Clarence A. Larkin, former captain of the guard, and recognized one of the "toughest" penal institution officers in the United States, has been appointed warden of Folsom Penitentiary, Cal. Folsom houses men who served previous prison terms.

SOLAR POISON

Washington, May 25.

Dr. Florence H. Meier of the Smithsonian Institution has announced the discovery of "20 distinct poison bands" in the Sun's invisible ultraviolet light.

Ordinarily the upper layers of the Earth's atmosphere filters out these wavelengths of light which are fatal to single celled green algae. Dr. Meier found the farther the wavelength was away from visible light the more fatal was the "poison band."

If it were not for the gaseous blanket of ozone miles above the Earth's surface, scientists believe life in its present form would be impossible.

Dr. Meier found the deadliest bands were around 2,200 Angstrom units, the scientific measuring rod for light. The "poison bands" in that vicinity, it was said, were the "cobra venom" of light. — United Press.

"Well, what if the British have?" was the informal reaction around the navy department. It was explained that the U.S. Navy for years has had guns—standard equipment on battleships—that under certain conditions can shoot a hole through foot-thick steel.

Put in the simplest terms, the penetrating power of a shell depends on the speed with which it strikes, which in turn depends on the distance of the gun from the object struck, and also on the angle at which it hits. It also depends on the hardness of the steel armour as well as its thickness.

So, guns of the sort the U.S. Navy mounts on its battleships might or might not penetrate another vessel with twelve inch armour, depending on all these elements.

Whether the British have developed a rifle more powerful than any the American navy uses is not known here. But even if they have U.S. naval experts don't believe it would be a reason for this country not to build more battleships.

Navy men explained that the race between the hitting power of a shell and the resistance of armour has been going on for decades. Every time the ordnance experts developed a shell that would strike with more force than any known before, the armour designers thickened or hardened their steel a bit. Neither side has kept ahead long at a time.

The race got started in earnest during the American Civil War when the first two armour-clads, the Monitor and Merrimack, were built. Old-fashioned cannon ball bounced off them like paper pellets. Then cannon became more powerful with the invention of the modern naval rifle.

During the years between the Spanish-American and the World War outstanding advances were made in both guns and armour. Some improvements have been made since.

If, as reported, the British have advanced the gun a bit forward, it will be up to the armour experts to start work again. — United Press.

"GOLF WIDOW" DIVORCE

Detroit, May 24.

Describing herself as a "golf widow," Mrs. Louella Dutra has been granted a divorce from Mortie Dutra, the well-known American professional golfer. Mrs. Dutra, who said her husband refused to take her to tournaments, was awarded $40 per month alimony and was given the custody of the 11-year-old twin sons.

The suit was not contested. — Reuter.

THREE RICHEST MEN IN FILM

"SHOOTING" £300,000,000 RULERS

THANKS to the enterprise of a young Englishman, three of the world's richest men are to co-star in a film.

The men whose private lives will be brought to the screen are the Nizam of Hyderabad, the Maharajah of Bikanir, and the Maharajah of Jaipur, the Indian potentates whose combined wealth is reputed to exceed £300,000,000.

The film, which will be in colour, will capture all the glitter and gorgeous pageantry of their Eastern kingdoms.

Richly decorated palaces, traditional processions in all their Oriental magnificence will be offset by "shots" revealing the simple life led by the rulers in the midst of colossal riches.

The man who has secured permission to take this film is adventurous, cheery, blue-eyed F. W. Wilson.

HIS WINNING WAY

With his usual winning manner, he walked in and succeeded where a dozen big film companies had failed.

The Nizam of Hyderabad, the first star in the film, is the world's richest man. His total income is said to exceed £150,000,000.

His annual income is £10,000,000. His State coach is of pure gold from his own mines of Golconda.

Fourteen million people come under his rule.

The State of Bikanir is ruled by the six-foot, military-looking Maharajah, Britain's firm friend and ally.

In his state Mr. Wilson will be able to film the crack Bikanir camel corps.

OWNS FLYING CORPS

The ruler of the State of Jodhpur, the Maharajah of Jaipur, ranks as one of India's most modern princes.

He has spent a vast sum of his private fortune in founding and maintaining a chain of aerodromes in his country. He has raised his own private corps of airmen.

Forty of his polo ponies, to be shown in the film, are worth £1,000 each. In his State army the native infantry all wear kilts and have their own pipe bands.

TWO BROTHERS LIVED LIKE THIS

JAMES PHILLIPS COLEMAN lived in the same house as his brother George near Hornell, New York, for sixty-two years, but they never crossed the chalk line that divided their home in two.

Each brother had his own bed, his own sink, stove, and dishes. They raised their own vegetables, but the garden was divided by a chalk line which they never crossed. They took their vegetables to market in a cart, which was divided by a chalk line, on each side of which they stacked their own produce and brought back their own supplies.

This month James, aged eighty-one, died from pneumonia, but his brother did not cross the chalk line to wish him farewell.

And when the undertakers arrived George began to wash away the chalk line.

The young cadets at the War School in Potsdam are practicing an exercise consisting of throwing iron balls. A very impressive sight from the spectator's point of view.

WIZARDS OF SCIENCE

VITAMIN THAT PUTS A KICK INTO LIFE

SCIENCE has found a new human value in vitamin D which, so far, has been associated chiefly with rickets. It may turn sluggards into "sloggers."

Tests were made with rats at the Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Massachusetts, and 1,000 X-ray photographs were taken.

The rats were dieted with foods deficient in vitamin D, then they were given food containing the vitamin.

The photographs showed that food lacking vitamin D was retained much longer in the stomach and that sluggishness was the result.

Professors R. S. Harris and J. W. M. Bunker, the experimenters, state that the nutritional reactions of rats are so often similar to those of humans that, apparently, the same results can be expected in the case of human beings.

Presumably, therefore, a diet rich in the vitamin would turn the sluggard into a "slogger."

Vitamin D is found chiefly in milk, eggs and fish, especially halibut, and halibut liver oil contains this vitamin in a highly concentrated form.

teeth that sparkle and charm

You, too, can have them—if you know this secret about removing film

Brushing with ordinary dentifrices can never give you the gleaming white teeth you envy. Only brushing with an effective film-removing dentifrice can do that. For film is the sticky, gummy coating that forms on teeth, obscures their natural beauty. Even worse, it glues to teeth the germs and acids associated with tooth decay. You must remove that film.

That's why we urge you to use Pepsodent, the special film-removing tooth paste. For Pepsodent contains a cleansing and polishing substance that is unexcelled in removing film from teeth. Yet it contains no grit—nothing to injure tooth enamel. So if you want whiter, brighter teeth remove film the safe, effective way—with Pepsodent Tooth Paste.

INTERNATIONAL POLICE

Should there be an international police force acting under the League of Nations to take the place of the military forces which are at present maintained by each nation at its own cost and acting only under its own orders? Before answering that question it is necessary to decide whether we are discussing a desirable ideal for the future or one that could put into practical effect at once, men and things being what they are. If the matter is argued, as it were in vacuo, as a question of academic political philosophy, most of us will be convinced by the reasoning of the international police force advocates. Put very briefly, without detail, they point to the fact that the King's peace within Great Britain is maintained almost inviolate on account of two things. First, the ordinary private citizen is disarmed. Secondly, an overwhelmingly powerful state police force exists to suppress crime whenever it occurs and to maintain order. Carry this over by analogy, to the international community, and it is obvious that world peace requires the complete disarmament of individual nations and the establishment of a world police force deriving its authority and giving its loyalty not from or to individual nations but from or to the whole body of nations as a recognised unity. Brevity forbids the development of criticism that might be made—e.g. the danger of analogy, the fact that behind the demand for a world police there really lies a demand for a sovereign world state; and in particular the creation of a tribunal who could call upon the world police to execute its decrees. Intelligent advocates of the international police ideals would doubtless admit the force of some of these criticisms, and accept the necessary additions and modifications of their scheme. Agreement thus might be generally reached that it would be very nice to have a world police force. Very nice, but is it possible in the world as it is at present constituted? It is interesting to note that at the time the League of Nations Covenant was framed, the "logical" Frenchman did his best to get provision for an international police force inserted in the Covenant there and then. The "practical" Englishman resisted; and you get a mild attempt at "reduction

MistHunting for Humour With
Mr. F.A. MackintoshGuided by Laszlo Schwartz

EVEN the Weather Man was on my side the morning I went to hunt for humour with Mr. F. A. Mackintosh. Not the best director in Hollywood—or mo-a-growing-and-a-grinning? Elstree could have created a more Scottish-flavoured and tinted, misty, messy, drab and drizzling morn.

When I told Mr. Mackintosh that I wanted a bit of Scottish humour, he seemed flabbergasted; and showed his surprise, mixed with cheery resentment, as only the Scots can tell it, in Looks Without Words.

Then he exclaimed: "And you mean to say that you expect me to tell you funny yarns at nine o'clock in the morning, without a drop of inspiration inside me—just in cold blood, with not a drop of whisky to set another week or so. Now, if you went to a physician, or even an undertaker, they would be more likely to accommodate you with some good jokes."

"It's bad enough to be a tailor, but to be asked to tell jokes in these hard times is like having your mother-in-law for a long visit and being compelled every day to ask her to 'stay just another week or so. Now, if you went to a physician, or even an undertaker, they would be more likely to accommodate you with some good jokes."

"Why to a physician?" I pressed, sensing a good joke behind his merry accompanying twinkle.

"Because a doctor can bury his mistakes, but mine haunt me through the rest of my life." That broke the ice—I mean, lifted the mist—for next moment he drew me aside to tell the funniest Scottish yarn he had ever heard:

"Joe was going to get married to the homeliest lassie in the village. All went well until he found himself in front of the altar. Then he began to search and fumble through his pockets. His best man whispered nervously, 'Have you lost the ring?' Joe took one woeful and desperate look at the bride's face and replied: 'No, mam—I've just lost my enthusiasm.'"

AFTER a spirited laughing duel in which Scotland and Hungary took equal honours, I just couldn't resist reciprocating with a very apropos story: "A Rabbi was punished with a wife whose features could never be improved upon by the combined genius of all the beauty specialists and face-we men who cultivate smiles more without persistently, and consistently wise old Jow asked him, 'Pray tell me, Rabbi, why do you take small or great.'

"The Rabbi's face became melancholic for a moment. Then, suddenly bursting into a merriment, he replied: 'Because I don't want to kiss her good-bye.'"

Mr. Mackintosh thought he had a still better one and was about to trump me one better when they called him into the Try-On Torture Chamber, and we buried that good joke right there and then until it can be revived some day at nine o'clock. But not in the morning—no, siree; in the evening. And not without an overture. Mr. Mackintosh may insist on his usual Homeland product, and I may wistfully long for the wine that we will compromise; oh, yes, we will, in a hearty laugh. For the men who cultivate smiles more without persistently, and consistently wise old Jow asked him, 'Pray tell me, Rabbi, why do you take small or great.'

MEN, WOMEN, & HATS

A Counterblast
to the Bowler

By "AN OLD STAGER"

IT is about time somebody with the courage of his convictions spoke up on behalf of the soft felt hat. There is an obvious conspiracy just now afoot to disparage and even to censure that comfortable article of male attire. All manner of people are being roped into this plot against the much-abused Tribby, from His Majesty King Edward the Eighth to that somewhat pedantic sartorial critic, Sir Walter Gilbey.

At the British Industries Fair King Edward paused to admire some bowler hats on a stall, and is reported to have expressed a hope that more of that form of headgear would be seen in this realm. Sir Walter Gilbey went out of his way, at the banquet of the Hatters' Association, to attack the slovenliness of modern youths who slouched about the town wearing soft-felted hats. Members of the Hatters' Association, who have a method in their madness, have given wide publicity to these facts.

It would not surprise me to find that we are on the eve of a great wear-more-bowlers advertising campaign, as I strongly suspect, a warning note is due.

Hats are no unimportant factors in the human cosmos. They have played a most significant and even vital role in big history. Their development is intimately interwoven in our social etiquette, and their shape and colour have been distinguishing emblems in the stormy annals of a world's unrest. Hats are extraordinarily recordable things.

Even to this day the ancient Grecian helmet still survives. We see it practically in all its pristine drama, in our modern firemen's helmet, and though in a slightly modified and debased form, in our policeman's head-wear.

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

It is stated that the Secretary of State for the Colonies was recently urged to "soak the rich" in Hongkong. Why not soak the soakers?

Appropriately enough, an American Ilex and Fork Company has turned to the manufacture of golf clubs.

The nudist magazine has not been banned in Hongkong. Naturally, our authorities always did believe in the naked truth.

"Radio Takes World To Epsom," says newspaper headline. When radio takes Epsom to the world, that'll be moving news.

The only filip our share market is getting at present is from the Philippines.

A spirit resembling gin is said to have been produced from filberts. Enough to drive anybody nutty.

The Negus is visiting England in coq. This, we understand, is short for "incoherent."

A well-known local professor left Hongkong by the "Dorado" yesterday. Forstering air travel.

According to a local scribe's interpretation of the Annual Reports of the Sanitary Department: "Women Dislike Baths." This probably explains the invention of bath salts!

A gigantic bronze statue of Signor Mussolini is to contain two lifts inside the legs emerging into a balcony erected round the shoulders. Visitors will apparently be shot up in pants.

Australian fruit, destined for Hongkong, is to be given "Twilight Sleep." After the bedding out of course!

The three stages of Hongkong prison life: Conviction, Reception, Eviction!

Newspaper heading: "Yanks Bent Boston." Gave 'em beans, in fact!

An American tourist was overheard to remark that "Hongkong certainly has an eye for bright dimes." What did he expect in a sanctuary for birds?

The only things some tourists carry away with them from Hongkong are good impressions.

Comfort First
So it behoves the hatters, before they lightly interfere with our tastes and liberties in hats, to ponder well what they are doing. Long before the French Terror there were political factions in many parts of the world who were recognised by their distinctive headgear. Time was when the topper was an emblem in this country of official status, social distinction, and financial importance. The hatters fought to the last a no-hard ditch to retain that superlatively, but they battled all in vain. A policeman or a county cricketer to-day who appeared wearing a topper would be an object of ridicule and fun. Even in the City the once august topper no longer cuts any financial ice. It remains today the exclusive insignia of the stationmaster, the undertaker's man, and the seaside cabby.

Having been decisively routed over the topper, the hatters are now making the bowler their second line of professional defence. Despite the fact that in certain semi-genteel suburbs this uncomfortable and ugly form of headwear is regarded as being socially a cut above the soft and convenient Tribby, and to confer a sort of old school aura on the wearer, I question whether the battle of the bowler will be any more successful, from the hatters' strategic standpoint, than the long rear-guard action waged over the topper.

Comfort first is the slogan of the modern man, and the soft felt is beyond dispute by far the most comfortable hat ever invented. Moreover, not all of us see sartorial effects with the eyes of a Sir Walter Gilbey.

Though it lacks the panache of the old graceful cavalier's plumed soft hat, or the adventure of the wide-brimmed sombrero, the modern Tribby has yet its artistic appeal. Esthetically there can be no comparison at all between a soft felt hat and a hard bowler, whether the latter be of the domed variety or of that square-topped style popular amongst certain small farmers and stock breeders. You still come across the latter at a farmers' ordinary, but even the bowler enthusiasts regard that variety with derision and contempt. There is a fatal schism in the bowler camp, and a hat divided against itself is surely doomed.

Good Enough for a King.

There remains, of course, the Royal recommendation given to the rounded bowler. But disciples of the Tribby may respectfully quote against that the example of King Edward the Seventh. It was that illustrious monarch, a great stickler on all sartorial affairs, who even went so far as to say that brown shoes were vulgar, who gave the soft Homburg hat its first leg up. What was good enough for King Edward the Seventh is still good enough for me.

Of course, one must never dogmatise on questions of personal taste. There is, as we all know only too well, a venerable Latin tag against it. The worst of it is that people like Sir Walter Gilbey, who seems to have set himself up as a sort of unofficial arbiter on dress for both sexes, do dogmatise on one point. It might

When Rudolf Friml last visited Hongkong in search of a girl to play the leading role in "Sing-Song Girl" he discovered Alice Lau, well-known local Chinese beauty, with whom he is pictured above. But Mrs. Lau refused to go to Hollywood, so the search must be renewed. See story next column.

"FIRST NIGHT" SUGGESTS THAT YOU— PROTEST IF INCREASED LICENCE FEE IS NOT FOR BETTER PROGRAMMES—

ABOUT that extra two dollars per annum it's going to cost you to own a receiver.

At a rough estimate, Z.B.W. will take another $5,000 from listeners this year.

Next year, it will cost more. Over 5,000 listeners will have to fork out an additional two dollars for their licences.

It doesn't matter a linker's cuss whether you listen to Z.B.W. or not. You've got to pay $12 per annum for the privilege of owning a wireless set.

What's going to happen to all this additional money Z.B.W. will receive for licences?

Presumably the cost of running the station is not going to decrease.

If the money is for maintenance of the new 3½ kilo-watt short-wave station now in course of erection, Hongkong listeners should protest.

That station is not for our benefit. Its purpose is twofold: to advertise Hongkong to the outside world and to counteract propaganda from other stations in times of emergency.

The first objective is the concern of the Hongkong Government, through the Travel Association. Tourists do not benefit Hongkong listeners; they benefit the Colony as a whole, and the Colony as a whole should be made to pay for them. Similarly, propaganda is not the pldgin of Hongkong listeners: it is the pldgin of the authorities.

The new short-wave transmitter does not and will at no time serve the listeners who are paying to maintain Z.B.W.

Any revenue Government derives from the increased fee for broadcasting MUST be put back into broadcasting in order to improve Z.B.W.'s programmes.

If that is the object of the increase in the licence fee, few listeners will object.

But if Government is earmarking the additional revenue to construct costly short wave broadcasting stations to reach the ears of the Canadian, American, Australian and European listener, you who in future must pay $12 per annum as a licence for your receiver have every right to blow off the deep end.

Remember what Z.B.W. programmes are like now. Compare them with the programmes you will be getting at the end of the year. Unless there is a vast difference, pack up your wireless set and buy a cheap gramophone.

Z.B.W. can be improved in dozens of ways, and the money that will be obtained from increased licence fees is too sorely needed to be frittered away on luxuries that are not going to benefit the listeners.

GIVE AMATEURS A CHANCE AT Z. B. W.

Why not give amateurs a chance to broadcast from Z.B.W. Many would like to do so but they don't know how to go about it.

In the United States commercial firms pay a Major Bowes $1,000 a week to put on an amateur hour every Sunday night. The idea has grown to be a bigger craze than crosswords or mah-jongg. Ten thousand unfortunate discontents apply every week for a chance to grab a minute's fame before the mike.

Chicken farmers, garage men, mothers of families, tramps and grocers' assistants, they all come. Out of the ten thousand (the good major has to feed, sometimes clothe, most before they can do their little pieces, after hitch-hiking, thumbing a way half across America) at most twenty-five are chosen. The rest go empty away. Lucky (?) ones are entitled to nothing but their chance; but the good major generally gives them a couple of pounds after the show.

So of a Sunday night, the whole American nation settles itself deeper, switches on and listens, with something of a savage and secret pleasure, to the panicky scowling, trumpeting, impersonations and animal noises of twenty-five of its less fortunate citizens.

The Romans, on the other hand, preferred to watch Christians thrown to the lions.

Z.B.W. on yet another hand, prefer to leave the whole matter of local broadcasting to the recognised amateur artists, whom you hear day in and day out without much variation.

"ROSE MARIE" COMPOSER ARRIVED ON A MISSION YESTERDAY

FRIML IN SEARCH OF A GIRL

RUDOLF FRIML, famed composer of music in "Rose Marie" is back in town.

Since 1932 he has regarded Hongkong as his home town, and now lives here six months in each year.

But present visit—he arrived here yesterday—will combine business with pleasure.

He's going to make third and final effort to find Chinese girl who can speak English fluently, has a figure and pretty face and can act passably.

For her there'll be a contract with Paramount Film Corporation—a fat cheque, and an opportunity to become over-night a big-shot Hollywood star.

Girl is needed to take leading role in "Sing-Song Girl," Friml's latest operetta.

Fifty per cent. of locale is in West Point of Hongkong. Remainder is in New York.

Girl who fits bill will have to go to Hollywood. She can take as many chaperones as she likes.

This is Friml's third search for "Sing-Song Girl." First search was unsuccessful, on second he picked local girl who was "perfect," but she pulled out before signing on dotted line.

Friml told me just before he left Hongkong to go to Hollywood to supervise production of "Rose Marie" that music in "Sing-Song Girl" is even more haunting than refrains in Canadian Mountie operetta.

All of "Sing-Song Girl" music was composed in Hongkong, in suite. In Peninsula facing harbor.

"Hongkong's beautiful peak at night gave me my inspiration," he said.

"Sing-Song Girl" will be produced by Paramount, under direction of Cecil B. de Mille. All exteriors, and many interiors, will be shot in Hongkong, finishing touches being put to film in Hollywood.

As soon as Friml can find his girl, camera unit and European members of cast will be sent out to Colony.

They will be here six months on production, may yet beat other units.

United Artists to film exteriors for "Marco Polo," Pioneer Films to film exteriors for "Chinese Gordon"—expected here within few months.

HONGKONG WILL B'CAST TO WHOLE WORLD

IN SEPTEMBER

Work commenced at Cape D'Agular this week on new 3½ kilo-watt short-wave broadcasting station which will replace present quarter kilowatt outfit in use at ZBW.

New transmitter will be powerful enough to reach every part of the world.

It will be completed in time to allow Hongkong to participate in annual Empire Christmas programmes, during which greetings are relayed to and from London to every part of the British Empire.

NEW RECORDS

MUSIC in the air this week and two new topical records reflect some of it. That "Die Meistersinger" overture, which (as some one is always pointing out) makes the rest of the opera rather unnecessary, appears on a disc recorded by the London Philharmonic under Georg Solti.

Few lowbrows seem able to resist the temptation of contributing their own percussion obligato to this overture—even in public, which is why they should have this record.

Mori Rosenthal—who, at eighty-four, must surely be the last surviving Liszt pupil—is giving London recitals just now, and a new disc records his playing of Chopin's A flat major waltz on one side and three preludes on the other. Sixty years ago Rosenthal renounced the piano for philosophy, and his work has a "Pachmann" quality to it. (H.M.V. DB2772.)

A record of haunting charm has impressed upon it Ravell's and "Paganini" pair Enfantie Dantesque, which ought to be listened to while looking at one of Velasquez' paintings of Spanish Court life. (Decca CA8230.)

Jazzists should welcome a new series of "swing" music which is just issued from the trumpets of such masters as Luis Russell, Toot Jordan, Benny Goodman, and Benny Carter. Although these names mean nothing at all to me, they are ones to confound with in the great world of Harlem, and two discs I have heard are adroit and vigorous specimens of the newer jazz. "Solitude" and "March Winds, April Showers" are on one record "Nightfall" and "Swing" at Maida Vale on another. (Vocalion Swing Series Nos. 3 and 4.)

For ordinary dance duty I pick "I Don't Know Your Name" this week, brisk and efficient fox-trot. (Brunswick 02181B.)

Transmitter will also be suitable for radio-telephony. It will provide Hongkong with radiophone link with Manila, Singapore, Hanol, other centres with which Colony has tested during recent months.

Installation is expected to be completed by September; new station will go on air shortly afterwards.

Girls' and Boys' Corner

Dear Kiddies,

Lots of you had difficulty in solving the Hidden Names Competition last week. The correct answers were—Ambrose Miller, Lily Brook, Muriel Gray, Robin Featherstone, Brian Bridges, Mabel Wallace.

Taking neatness and age into account, Uncle Eddie has decided to award the Senior prize to Jeanne Freeman (aged 11), of 289 Prince Edward Road; and the Junior to Arthur Fisher (aged 6), of the Royal Armament Depot.

Specially commended for good work are—Diana Freeman, David McCusland, Phyllis Kirby, Peter Ferguson, John Clewer and Betty Manders.

For this week, children, I'm giving you a Jig-Saw Colouring Competition. What you have to do is to cut out the sixteen squares shown in the accompanying sketch and fit them together so that they form a picture. Neatness and excellence of colouring will be taken into account in awarding the prizes.

There will again be two prizes, details of which you will find in the advertising columns of today's "Telegraph." — o h e f o r k i d d i e s b e t w e e n 10 and 14, and the other for those below 10 years. Competitors must state their ages. This is important.

Send in your entries, addressed to Uncle Eddie, c/o "Hongkong Telegraph," so as to reach him not later than 4 p.m. on Wednesday.

Phyllis Kirby, Thanks ever so much Phyllis, for the lovely painting of the grass hopper. It is beautifully drawn and coloured.

Uncle Eddie.

This is the Wedding Dress

Lady Angela Scott
Wore last month

GOWN is of heavy satin, the soft white of a creamy rice pudding. Wide band of smocking from throat to knee draws gown close to figure, emphasises waist (that strip took two embroideresses a day and a half to do). Dress otherwise unornamented. Sheath sleeves, buttoning up skin tight and shaped like an arm lily where they reach over the hands. Fan train springs from back of gown.

HHEAD-DRESS made from about 4½ square yards of foamy net-and-mounted-with-bridal-veil-lent-to-the-bride, who is a sister of the Duchess of Gloucester, by her mother-in-law, Lady Susan Dawnay. Wreath of unreal orange blossoms.

FLOWERS: crescent of living flowers, all white: roses, tulips, lilies-of-the-valley, stephanotis.

Your Home can pay for itself

MANY women who are good at home-making and have comfortable houses of their own wish to add to their income.

If you have an available spare room, it is a good idea to take a paying guest. Put an advertisement in a newspaper, and seek the help of friends and relatives. If it is known to business houses and schools that you have an empty room, they are likely to send you prospective clients.

Remember that it is the atmosphere of your home that makes it comfortable to live in. Make your guest feel that your house is a second home. Remember the little things: the cup of tea in bed, really hot shaving water, well-cleaned shoes, and nicely cooked and well-served breakfast make people feel well cared for. Do not belittle early morning efficiency. It pays in the end.

Do not be niggardly in small things. See that there is always plenty of soap in the bathroom and in your spare room; and a few flowers are well worth their cost. Be cheerful when you can. There is a good deal of irritation in a day's work, no matter how good the job, and it is a relief to be able to shed it on reaching home.

If your guest has an accident and breaks or damages your things, make light of it. In any case, he will probably offer to repair the damage, so no real harm is done.

If there is any complaint to make, do it in a reasonable manner. It is a mistake to create an atmosphere of suspicion. Talk it over in a quiet way, and you will find that everything works out all right.

A bed-sitting room can be very dreary at times, no matter how comfortable it is. Ask your guest to sit with you sometimes, and make it possible for him to entertain his friends.

Variety is the spice of food. It need not necessarily be more expensive than usual, but your guest will appreciate it more if he does not know every meal in advance. A little surprise often coaxes a tired stomach and soothes a tired brain.

Naturally, you are taking a paying guest to increase your own security and peace of mind. Do not forget the other side of the picture. Your boarder is not in his own home. Be a friend to him and he will never forget it. His luck and your fame will spread far and wide. But remember that a bad name travels farther and faster than a good one.

The knack of making people happy and contented is your capital. Make the best of it.

QUIET CORNER

Four seasons meet...

THROUGH the gap half-way up the lane one comes to a small stretch of ground which is like a cross-roads where four seasons meet.

Close to the hedge stands the yellow rick of whoistraw from last summer's crop. The thatcher is at work on it, anxious to be finished before darkness falls.

He climbs up his ladder rather as the thrush at evening mounts higher up the tree to make the most of daylight.

The plough stands idle at a furrow's end, where half the field is being fallowed for the next year's wheat.

The other half is green with the corn which will yield the coming harvest.

Near the dividing line is a relic of many seasons past, an oblong section of a blackened hayrick, which stands like some mysterious altar bearing a burnt-offering to the gods of farming.

R. HENGIST HORNE
(1803-1884).

You can make moulds from all kinds of MEATS

FROM jellies and pudding to beef loaf and brawn, the mould has innumerable uses. It will turn the odd piece of cold meat from amorphous mince into a stately edifice.

In its smallest form, when known as a dariole mould, it makes dainty luncheon dishes of jellied chicken, rabbit, fish, or vegetables, and also those castle puddings which were favourites of one's youth.

Use only the best gelatine for making jelly, and, when practice has made you almost perfect in the matter of consistency, you should get few failures if the following instructions are carried out.

Always rinse the mould in cold water and let the sides of it be wet before putting in the jelly. When the time comes to turn it out, immerse the mould for a moment in hot water. Thick earthenware moulds will naturally need a little longer time than metal ones.

Then put the dish for your jelly on top of the mould and turn them over. Don't shake vigorously as if you were expecting a cocktail to emerge. Give a downward jerk only, and then remove the mould carefully as though you were a conjurer performing a very remarkable trick. We hope you are.

Meat shapes are not usually so refractory, and, before they are put in, the mould should be brushed over with olive oil or butter.

To make cold meat into a hot mould, take a pound of it and mince it. Mix it with a quarter of a pound of breadcrumbs, an onion finely chopped, pepper, salt, a pinch of grated nutmeg, two beaten eggs and enough stock to moisten.

Turn it into a greased mould and steam it for an hour.

The flavours can be varied according to the sort of meat which is being used up. Parsley and thyme, for instance, would go very well with veal, mushrooms with beef or mutton, and sage with pork.

If the meat has insufficient fat of its own, add a proportion of minced fat bacon to it.

Serve the mould with a well-seasoned brown or tomato sauce poured round it.

Lastly, a sweet. Steam a pound of prunes until they are very soft. Take out the stones and crush the prunes smoothly in a basin. Crack the stones and split the kernels in two.

Sweeten the prunes with moist sugar, add the kernels and steam the mixture in a plain, oiled mould for an hour. Serve cold with whipped cream or custard.

How Hongkong Is Defeating a "Gentleman's" Pact JAPANESE TEXTILE MERCHANTS USE COLONY FOR OPERATIONS

PACT BETWEEN U.S.A. AND JAPAN DEFEATED BY DUMPING IN H.K.

QUOTA THAT HAS BEEN RENDERED
INEFFECTIVE BY SHIPPING
TEXTILES TO COLONY

FOR RE-EXPORTATION TO PHILIPPINES

"Telegraph" Special Representative

IS Hongkong being used as a dumping ground for Japanese cotton textiles in order to defeat the recent "Gentleman's Agreement" between Japan and the United States, whereby the Japanese Guild for Cotton Cloth Exports agreed to limit exports to the Philippines to 42 million square yards per annum.

Investigations disclose that the answer is in the affirmative.

This week I saw several persons connected with the textile import and export trade in Hongkong.

As soon as the purport of my visit was made known they refused to be interviewed.

Some, in fact, emphatically denied the suggestion that Hongkong was being used as a base to re-export Japanese textiles to the Philippines in contravention of the Japanese-United States agreement.

As a result of investigations, however, I am able to quote official figures proving beyond a shadow of a doubt that this trade is reaching such gigantic proportions that it is almost equalling that trade that existed directly between Japan and the United States before the agreement came into force on October 11 last year.

My figures are based on those issued by the Hongkong Government Statistician's Office.

They indisputably show that, in the first four months of the current year, Hongkong exports of cotton textiles to the Philippines were more than double the exports for the same period last year.

Imports from Japan to Hongkong have increased correspondingly.

Hongkong, in fact, is being used as a clearing house in order to defeat the letter of the agreement between America and Japan.

In each month since the agreement came into force the trade has developed enormously.

The following figures, showing the export of cotton textiles from Hongkong to the Philippine Islands for the first four months of the current year and for the corresponding period last year speak for themselves:

EXPORT OF COTTON TEXTILES TO P.I. (Linear Yards)
1935	1936
January 3,077,000	3,215,000
February 1,630,000	5,669,000
March 5,391,000	10,371,000
April 4,686,100	10,705,000

In the first four months of 1935, Hongkong re-exported 17,784,100 linear yards of textiles to the Philippines.

In the same period for the current year, we exported no less than 30,291,000 linear yards.

INCREASES IN APRIL

The greater part of this vast shipment was made in March and April, when 21,077,000 linear yards were exported.

It will be seen therefore that the exports of cotton textiles from Hongkong to the Philippines for March and April alone equal exactly fifty per cent of the total quota of 42,000,000 yards agreed upon by Japanese exporters.

In effect Japan is exporting 42,000,000 yards of cotton textiles, the limits imposed by the agreement direct to the Philippines.

This maximum allowance, however, will be easily exceeded 100 per cent by the amount of non-quota textiles going through Hongkong.

Because of the variation in the value of the Hongkong dollar, the linear method of computing increased values of exports to the Philippines gives a fair indication of the position.

Itemised statistics prepared by the Government Statistician, and contained in the monthly reports of Hongkong Trade and Shipping Returns for March, 1935 and March, 1936, give the following facts:

IMPORTS FROM JAPAN
1935	1936
A. Grey Cloths 2,120 yds	9,100 yds
B. Dyed Drills & Jeans 902,260 yds	820,856 yds
C. Plain Cottons 916,725 yds	4,813,319 yds
D. Prints 610,288 yds	731,310 yds

Exports to Philippines:

1935	1936
A. Nil	800 yds.
B. Nil	47,500 yds.
C. 178,575 yds	4,223,946 yds.
D. Nil	458,700 yds.

During March 1935, which may be taken as representative of every month in the year, there were no exports from Hongkong of Grey Cloths and Mexican Dyed Drills and Jeans or Prints. The only export of textiles was a shipment of 178,575 yards of Plain Cottons.

FOURFOLD INCREASE

The figures for March, 1936, speak for themselves.

In March, 1935, before the agreement between Japan and America came into force, Hongkong imported 916,725 yards of Plain Cottons from Japan, exporting only 178,575 yards of the same material to the Philippines.

In March this year, after the agreement had come into force, Hongkong imports leapt up to 4,813,319 yards, and its exports to 4,223,946 yards!

Although itemised figures for last month are not yet available for publication, I understand that they show a big increase on the figures quoted above for the month of March.

One Small Gap Radiophone Holds Up Set For Traffic H.K. Motorists In N.Y.K. Liner

JUST ONE RIVER TO CROSS

With the promise of a road extension across the Hongkong-Kwangtung border linking Fanling and Sheung Shui with Shum Chun and the enormous road development that is taking place in Kwangtung Province, it will be possible before long for Hongkong motorists to make many extensive road tours outside our own Colony.

So far has road development been carried in Kwangtung that it would be already possible for Hongkong motorists to travel from the Colony to Canton on a roadway that is remarkably good in parts, fair in others, but for the fact that no facilities are available for travelling from the Hongkong side of the Shum Chun river and Shum Chun itself.

ROUNDABOUT ROAD

The road from Shum Chun to Canton is a roundabout one, occupying about twice to three times the mileage of the Kowloon Canton Railway.

From Shum Chun motorists can travel along an excellent road to Lung Kong, where alternative routes can be taken to Tsing Shui. The southern and longer route is via Ping Shan, but the roads are better than those on the shorter route via Yau Tsang and Waichow.

Both roads join again at Waichow, which is on the East River, and from where it is possible to take a motor boat to Canton. From Waichow the road is fairly indifferent to Peking-shien (population 342,000), and from there on to Tsinghsing and Canton is fair.

ROAD TO MACAO

It is anticipated that before the end of 1937 travellers will be able to proceed not only to Canton but also to Macao by road.

Macao is already linked with Shum Chun by two excellent alternative routes, and a roadway is under construction linking Shum Chun with Lung Kong. From Lung Kong a fairly good road provides a link with Peking-shien. No link is as yet provided between Peking-shien and Canton, but it is one of the Kwangtung Provincial projects.

The smallest but most insuperable missing link from the point of view of Hongkong motorists is the one across the border dividing Kwangtung from the New Territories.

When the N.Y.K. liner Chichibu Maru leaves Hongkong next Wednesday, passengers aboard will be able to converse by radio-telephone with every part of the world—except Hongkong.

High-power radio-telephone apparatus, installed in the liner when she was last in Japan is now ready for service.

A representative of the Telegraph visited the ship in dock, and was shown over the apparatus. Owing to harbour restrictions it was not possible to put through a call, otherwise newspaper history would have been made by a telephone conversation to Tokyo.

The apparatus is the most modern in existence. Balanced aerials allow two-way conversation without interference between the transmitters and receivers.

Several of the passengers aboard the ship were allowed to converse with officials ashore.

The Chichibu Maru is the first vessel on the regular trans-Pacific service to the American continent to install radio-telephony. Similar services will be installed shortly in the Asama Maru and Terukuni Maru.

Radio-telephony has, however, been in use for some time in certain of the Lloyd Triestino ships, the Conte Rosso being the first to employ it on the regular run to Hongkong.

Practically all trans-Atlantic ships are fitted with telephony apparatus.

LEAVING FOR HOME

POLICE INSPECTORS HOARE AND DORLING

Two retired inspectors in the Hongkong Police Force, Messrs. A.J.W. Dorling and F. Hoare, will be leaving the Colony to-day. Both of them are on pension and have been awarded the Police Silver Medal for merit.

Detective Inspector Arthur James William Dorling was appointed to the rank of Force Constable on November 16, 1913, and arrived in the Colony on December 27 of the same year to take up his duties as a Police Constable. Nine years later, on July 15, 1922, he was promoted to Police Sergeant, and became Sub-Inspector on October 1, 1925. For several years past, until his retirement on January 9, 1934, he was in charge of the Criminal Investigation Department, Kowloon. During his service he was commended on no fewer than seven occasions.

Born on April 20, 1886, Inspector Hoare was appointed Police Constable on January 9, 1914, and eight years later was promoted to Crown Sergeant. In 1925, he attained the rank of Sub-Inspector, and was promoted to Inspector on August 31, 1933. During the last five years he has been Divisional Inspector of the New Territories, North.

Coroner And A Dead Woman's Letters

"FRANKLY, I DO NOT BELIEVE THEM"

SISTER'S EVIDENCE OF "SELF PITY"

In view of allegations in a letter left by Mrs. Margaret Wardle, 37, wife of a retired Army captain, who was found dead from gas poisoning at an apartment house in Warwick-avenue, Maida Vale, Mr. Ingleby Oddie, the coroner, at a Paddington inquest recently questioned Mr. James-Quin, a retired naval commander.

After hearing the evidence, Mr. Oddie, in recording a verdict of suicide, while of unsound mind, said: "I frankly do not believe the allegations against Commander Quin."

In a letter which the coroner read, the woman alleged that she had been turned out of the house by the commander.

Mr. Quin stated that Mrs. Wardle had lived with him as his wife for about three years. They conducted an apartment house in Warwick-avenue.

Recently they had a disagreement because Mrs. Wardle would keep running in and out of people's rooms, and it was annoying them. He did not tell her to clear out. She had already packed to go to Glasgow.

WHY BED WAS REMOVED

Coroner: How did you meet this lady?—I met her quite by accident in the West End one evening about three years ago. She and her husband were separated. She has been home to Glasgow several times. He said he had Mrs. Wardle's bed removed from her room on Thursday because she said she was going to Glasgow and he was getting the room ready for letting. She came back on Friday, and he last saw her alive on Saturday night.

He appealed to her to have her bed back, but she would not, and slept on cushions on the floor.

Mr. Quin told the coroner he had seen a letter addressed to him.

Coroner: In it she says: "I had no intention of going to Scotland. You have played a dirty game. I have always done my best for you, but apparently I am all wrong. I have nowhere to go and have no money, so under the circumstances this is the best way out."

Coroner: How have you played her a dirty game?—I don't know. That was a figure of speech with her. During the time I have known her I have done my best in every way. She was practically destitute, and I have seen that she had all that she needed.

You have been living with her for about three years, and if you turn her into the street with no money and nowhere to go that is a dirty trick, isn't it?—I have not done such a thing.

Mr. Quin added that he was financing Mrs. Wardle to go away, and he gave her £5 to redeem some small pieces of jewellery, and she asked for some money to pay her fare to Glasgow.

He had never threatened or been violent to the woman. One of her weaknesses was gambling in small sums on racehorses.

Coroner: Are you single or married?—Single.

IMAGINARY GRIEVANCES

She has said to Miss Barry in a letter which she wrote just before she died: James has been behaving like a madman lately and treating me badly. Now he proposes turning me out, and has removed my belongings from my room. I don't deserve this from him. I haven't a bean now, and the best thing is to end it all."

Mr. Quin repeated that he did not turn the woman out. Miss Hilda Barry, a school-teacher, who found Mrs. Wardle dead in her room, seated on a chair with a gas ring on her lap, stated that she had never seen Mr. Quin ill-treat the woman. Mrs. Wardle had said that he had threatened to strike her and that on Thursday morning he had kicked her.

Mrs. Rose Gilmour, sister of the dead woman, who said that she lived in Glasgow, gave evidence that Mrs. Wardle suffered from imaginary grievances against everyone—she had a sense of grievance and self-pity and was unreliable.

"I think it is all wrong to blame anyone for what has happened except herself," said Mrs. Gilmour. "That is the reason why I would not take her back."

Major Thomas Graham, who lives in the house in Warwick-avenue, said that Mr. Quin and the woman seemed to be on very good terms, and there had been no violence so far as he knew. It was rather difficult to keep the woman out of his apartment.

The coroner, summing-up, said that he was glad the last two witnesses had been called, because they throw a different light on the case, in which he had been under the impression from the letters left by the woman that she had been treated very badly by Quin.

THE ENGLISH AND THEIR EVENING DRESS

NOT lightly should the Englishman give up his Evening Dress, badge of his tribe. So think Oxford Union, the Undergraduates' Parliament. So thought Ernest Cardin, of Balham, penniless, but proud.

When the Union met recently president, secretary, chairman and treasurer all wore lounge suits. But librarian J. Brown moved that in future all officers should wear Evening Dress.

Nothing, he declared, was more likely to bring the Union into contempt than for members to see them in all sorts of garb. President W. G. C. Shobbeare (Socialist) disagreed.

But Evening Dress won, by a large majority.

ERNEST CARDIN lived in a flat in Conbrook-mansions. Every day for six months he had gone out, a bowed, bowler-hatted figure, carrying a parcel.

One night this month he went out for the last time. In his parcel was his Evening Dress. It was the last of all his possessions. And, when he had sold it, he gassed himself.

"I don't want to die," he said in a farewell note they found "but I've nothing left."

Years ago Ernest Cardin was rich; but a few days before he died he had only 2s. He took it to a dog racing meeting—and lost.

Women Want Flight To Stratosphere

Warsaw, May 20.
TWENTY-TWO people, among them three women, want tickets to the stratosphere. Each of them is willing to pay £20,000 for a ticket.

This emerges from answers received by Professor Jean Piccard, the stratosphere balloonist, in reply to his advertisement stating that he is willing to take with him to the stratosphere anyone who will pay £20,000 towards the cost of the ascent.

He intends to make the ascent from Polish territory. The balloon has been ordered from the Polish military balloon works at Legismo.

50-YEAR-OLD WIDOW

The list of applicants is headed by two Japanese millionaires, who have both offered a sum higher than Professor Piccard's figure, provided that he will agree to make the ascent from Japan.

Another applicant is a 50-year-old widow, whose condition is that, in the event of an accident, a monument should be erected to her memory.

The wife of a South American business man entreats Professor Piccard to take her with him so that she may have "at least one interesting day in a tiresome and boring life."

FOR A SYMPHONY

A Swedish woman pilot, owner of a bicycle factory in America, who composes music, is anxious to gather material to write a "stratosphere symphony."

A rich woman from Delhi wants to take part in the ascent provided that "no one learns of her exploit."

The ages of the applicants range from 71 to 14.—Reuters.

Professor Piccard is reputed to have said that he would not undertake the flight with a woman passenger.

Car Drops 1,000ft.: Driver Escapes Unhurt

Allahabad, May 24.
A motorist had a marvellous escape in the Naini Tal Hills, in Central India, when his car swerved on a mountain road and plunged over a precipice.

Just as it toppled over the edge the motorist, Mr. J. Guille, jumped out, and was caught in the branches of a tree. His car fell 1,000 feet.

Although partially stunned by his fall, Mr. Guille managed to climb back to safety, his injuries consisting only of one lost tooth.

Chinese Officials To Wear Uniforms Like Sun Yat-sen

Nanking, May 25.
Effective this summer, the "Chungshan" style uniform has been prescribed as attire of officials of the Nanking Municipal Government, various ministries, and commissions under the Executive Yuan.

Alternatively, it will be permissible to wear foreign attire—this concession being evidently for the benefit of higher-up officials. But the usual "long-gown" is definitely banned.

Though the fact is not generally known, the "Chungshan" uniform, named after Dr. Sun Yat-sen whose courtesy-name was Chungshan, seems to have been an idea picked up by Dr. Sun while visiting Japan. It closely resembles the usual attire of Japanese students save that it is trimmer and more military in aspect, having a turnover collar and patch pockets. Dr. Sun is portrayed on China's new nickel coins, wearing this uniform.

The foreign press does not take to it greatly and "one-Shanghai" newspaper, finding the Chinese gown slightly, inexpensive and comfortable, says that to take Chinese officials out of the long gown and put them into Chungshan uniform is comparable to the historic introduction of the night-gown-like "holoku" as feminine attire in Hawaii.

ARMANATH'S TWO CENTURIES

BRILLIANT FORM BY INDIAN

FISHLOCK DOES SAME TRICK

London, May 29. India suffered another defeat against a county cricket team to-day, Essex proving much too strong for the visitors and won by seven wickets.

Everything in the match was overshadowed by the brilliant batting of Armanath, who not only hit up 130 out of his side's total first innings score of 184, but went on to gather another 107 in the second innings.

In the county championship, Sussex lost to Surrey, the feature of the match being Fishlock's two centuries for the winners. Maurice Tate had a successful spell with the ball, capturing 6 for 57.

Sussex could never fully recover from a disastrous first innings which realised a mere 97 runs. When they batted a second time they put together 302, but the effort came too late to save defeat.

Oxford did well to beat Worcester-shire, while Cambridge drew with Yorkshire, although the champions were strongly placed right through.

Results.

Essex (351 and 61/3) beat All-India (184 and 227) by seven wickets.

Surrey (276 and 184/4) beat Sussex (97 and 362) by six wickets.

Oxford (204 and 275) beat Worcester-shire (170 and 249) by six runs.

Yorkshire (439 for 4 dec. and 204) drew with Cambridge (260 and 84/1).

Eyston Not To Attack Records Yet

FAMOUS RACER'S QUEST

Salt Lake City, May 29. Captain George B. T. Eyston, the 39 years-old English racing motorist, who is to attempt to lower all records above 100 miles and to regain his records up to 100 miles, said to-day that the Bonneville flats were insufficiently dry to attempt any records until June.

Eyston is using a mystery Deisel-engined car called the "Flying Spray" for his efforts to set new records above 100 miles while for his attempts on records up to 100 miles he is using a 450 h.p. car called "Speed of the Winds."—United Press.

AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

JIM FERRIER HAD AN ANXIOUS TIME

But Recovered Brilliantly To Enter Final

St. Andrew's, May 29. Hector Thomson, the Walker Cup player, and Jim Ferrier, Australian champion, will contest the final of the British Open Amateur Golf Championship here. To-day both survived quarter-final and semi-final matches, Thomson, continuing his remarkable form, won comfortably. Ferrier was hard pressed in the semi-final by Alec Hill, a London stockbroker and won by one up.

They returned the following cards on the outward journey:

Hill, 4-1-4-5-5-4-4-3-4=37.
Ferrier, 1-1-1-5-5-4-4-3-4=38.

Ferrier generally was out-driven though there was nothing to choose between their short game. At the first and fourth Ferrier pulled his tee shot and was bunkered; Hill found himself in the heather at the fourth and on the six Ferrier took three putts. Hill turned on the homeward course one up.

FERRIER'S EAGLE

Ferrier squared at the tenth with a five-yard putt and took the lead in a sensational fashion at the twelfth where his tee shot finished a yard from the pin. Nevertheless Hill did the hole in a birdie three against Ferrier's eagle two.

Hill squared at the fourteenth, laying a long approach dead, but he was short at the seventeenth where the Australian became one up with an orthodox four.

Their return cards read—

Ferrier, 3-4-2-4-5-4-4-4-4=34.
Hill, 4-4-4-5-5-4-4-3-4=37.

THRILLING FINAL EXPECTED

The Anglo-Scottish final between Thomson and Hill is expected to furnish a very thrilling match, says Reuter. Odds are still slightly in favour of Thomson.

The feature of to-day's play was the performance of Alec Hill in the quarter-final whose putting was very spectacular. Tolley should have won his match against him, but he stymied himself at the nineteenth when he was one up.

The results in brief were:—

QUARTER-FINALS

1. H. Thomson beat G. Peters 2 and 1.

2. A. Hill beat C. Tolley at nineteenth.

3. J. Ferrier beat M. Dykes 3 and 2.

SEMI-FINALS

Thomson beat Ewing two up.

Ferrier beat Hill one up.

CHOSEN LAST EVENING

Fine Team

MONDAY'S EVENT

Hongkong's team to oppose the Filipino World Olympic swimmers at the Victoria Recreation Club next Monday was selected last evening following trials. A very representative combination has been chosen, so much so that only one V.R.C. swimmer is included.

The programme will consist of five events between the Colony and the visiting swimmers, plus two events confined to V.R.C. members and a ladies' race.

The official programme is:—
100 yards free style, 200 yards breast stroke, 100 yards back stroke, 440 yards free style and a Medley Relay which includes 100 yards back stroke, 100 yards breast stroke and 100 yards free style.

Here are the nominated swimmers for the various events:
100 YARDS FREE STYLE
Filipino team—J. Adjaluddin and J. R. Obial.

Hongkong team—Chan Chun-hin (Chinese Bathing Club), and Norman Lee (S.C.A.A.).

Olympic Games

BRITISH BID TO SEND TEAM OF 250

A big effort is being made to send a full and representative team of British athletes and sportsmen to the Olympic Games in Berlin between August 1 and 16.

The British Olympic Association aim at sending 250 competitors, and for this purpose a sum of about $12,000 must be raised. Through the efforts of Lord Portal, the chairman of the council, a considerable sum has already been collected or promised without any appeal being made to the general public. This is a gratifying state of affairs, and it is hoped that the full amount required will be forthcoming.

There may be some surprise at the proposed size of the team, but it is intended to send four or five canoeists, nine men and nine women gymnasts, in addition to fencers, rifle shots, cyclists, boxers, swimmers, and equestrians, in addition to track and field athletes.

For the equestrian sports two teams of three Army officers each will be entered. The events include a speed and an endurance test over 80 kilos, followed by jumping in the Stadium.

WILFRID LAWRENCE

THE OAKS WAS A BIG UPSET

Two Outsiders Astonish

London, May 29.

The Oaks, which was run at Epsom to-day, proved to be a real turn-up, as the first, Sir Abo Bailey's Lovely Rosa at 33 to 1 and the second, Sir Frederick Eley's Barrowby Gem at 22 to 1, were two of the most unconsidered runners of the field of seventeen.

Both were trained at Lambourn but by different trainers. They had only won one race before in their careers and neither finished first in the Two Thousand Guineas.

Yet the pair battled to an exciting finish, the former winning by three quarters of a length, with H.M. the King's Feels at 10 to 1, running with Lord Derby's colours, two lengths away for third position. Lord Astor's Traffic Light was fourth.

The winner, whose owner and his wife were present, ran almost un-becked.

Lord Derby's Tildeway starting at 5 to 1 was the favourite, and with Esmond Harmsworth's Silver Birch at 100 to 30 ran very prominently but failed to stay the distance finishing eighth and fifth respectively.—Reuter.

In Search Of Sports Honours

MACAO TEAMS IN HONGKONG THIS WEEK-END

(By Our Own Correspondent)

Macao, May 28.

A representative party of tennis, badminton, and pingpong enthusiasts from Macao will be testing their skill in Hongkong during the week-end, when they meet Club de Recreio in the three forms of sport and St. Andrew's at badminton.

Macao's tennis players will be Eduardo de Silva, Jose Nolasco, Alberto Pereira, Guilherme da Silva, Dr. J. Villa Franca, C. da Silva, Alexandra Royol, A. A. Mello, J. Fernandes and L. Martins. In mixed doubles the ladies will be Misses Helena Ribeiro, Celeste Vidigal and Amalia Nolasco.

The badminton team will consist of Eduardo de Silva, Jose N. da Silva, H. Noronha, Alfredo de Silva, Leung Hung Fan and R. Banares.

The players were selected from teams of the Macao and the Union Sports Clubs which have been very active during the last few weeks steadily competing having taken place during the week-ends.

Much interest is being taken locally in the forthcoming invasion and the results of the matches scheduled to be played will be keenly followed by sports circles in Macao.

The Olympic programme includes 19 branches of sport, with athletics making the more general appeal. Our field events experts have not yet reached the super-standard of the Americans or Finns, but we possess track runners and walkers worthy to rank with the world's best.

With such quarter-milers as W. Roberts, A. G. K. Brown, G. L. Rampling, and A. Pennington it will be a big disappointment if we do not win the 400 metre flat and the 1,000 metres relay races, and we can look to T. W. Green to retain his title in the distance walk.

Britain has made a monopoly of the 800 metres at the last four Olympiads, thanks to A. G. Hill, D. G. A. Lowe (twice), and T. Hampson. The A.A.A. championships in July—immediately after which the team will be chosen—will show if these successes are to be repeated.

NO UPSET RESULTS

IN YESTERDAY'S LEAGUE TENNIS

FULL DETAILS

South China A.A., Kowloon Indians, Police and Craigengower all won with little difficulty their opening matches in the "D" Division of the tennis league played yesterday, the victors being Central British Association, the Army, Indian R. C. and Kowloon Cricket Club.

The excellent form of the Police hinted they would be well in the running for honours this year, though South China appear to be potential champions just at present.

The results were:—

S.C.A.A. 8 C.B.A. 1
K.I.T.C. 5 The Army 2 1/2
Police 6 1/2 I.R.C. 2 1/2
C.C.C. 5 1/2 K.C.C. 3 1/2
Details of the four matches follow.

SOUTH CHINA v. C.B.A.

Australia's Davis Cup team to oppose America. Vivian McGrath, Clifford Sproule (player-manager), Adrian Quist, and Jack Crawford.

America Or Australia? To-day's Big Davis Cup Encounter

ADRIAN QUIST EXPECTED TO BE AUSTRALIA'S "KEY" PLAYER

(By "Veritas")

Not since Rene Lacoste took his famous team of "Musketeers" to Philadelphia in September 1927 has the United States staged such an important Davis Cup tie as that which starts at Germantown, Pa., to-day between America and Australia in the final of the American Zone.

It is true that Australia played at Philadelphia in 1932, but as she was then represented by Jack Crawford, who had still to reach the zenith of his career, and Harry Hopman who was not in the same class as Ellsworth Vines, Frank Shields, Allison and Van Ryn, the contest did not even promise to be anything out of the ordinary. America won that tie by five rubbers to love.

Since then these two countries have met once, when in 1934 they contested the Inter-Zone final, United States winning by three rubbers to two.

QUIST THE "KEY" MAN

To-day Australia meets the United States with practically a 50-50 chance of winning. Jack Crawford may not be the potential force of 1933, yet he remains a player capable of beating anybody. Nevertheless Australia's "key" player does not appear to be Crawford, but Adrian Quist, who has jumped into prominence during the last twelve months with a succession of victories over Crawford, Turnbull, McGrath, N. G. Parquharson and V. G. Kirby.

Quist, previously a doubles player, now holds the singles championships of Australia, New South Wales, Victoria and Queensland. Last year, Wimbledon he won the doubles title with Crawford, and in a subsequent tour of South Africa scored eight important successes in singles matches.

In three of these four Australian championships he defeated Crawford, once in the semi-final and twice in finals.

Quist therefore earns the right of being described the greatest singles player in Australia to-day. But he is just as brilliant at the doubles game, and Clifford Sproule, player-manager of the team may find it difficult to make up his mind how to use Quist against America.

THE PROBLEM

On the face of it he and Crawford should play singles, while in view of their Wimbledon achievement last year, plus the fact that Quist, with Turnbull, beat Crawford and McGrath in the Australian championship final a few months ago, the same two appear to be most desirable for the doubles.

It is doubtful, however, if this is being seriously considered. The question seems to be whether Quist will be used for singles or doubles.

Crawford is almost certain to figure in both and his partner is most likely to be Vivian McGrath. If McGrath is chosen for singles then Quist will play doubles with Crawford, but if Quist is preferred for singles, which is most likely, McGrath, who has had plenty of experience of playing doubles with Crawford, will partner Australia's former No. 1 exponent.

America's line-up appears to be a much easier problem. Wilmer Allison, Bryan ("Blinky") Grant, Donald Budge and Gene Mako have been chosen, and it is clear who will play singles and doubles.

Budge and Mako are holders of the United States doubles championship and are certain to figure in this capacity against the Australians, leaving Grant and Allison to concentrate on the singles.

In his own country Grant is as good as any of his colleagues and if anything is to be preferred to Budge who has several weak links in his game, notably—his—forehand—drives—and smashing.

SEVERE TEST FOR GRANT

It is going to be a severe test for Grant, who will be making what is more or less his debut in really important international tennis. Though he played against Mexico in the first round, it was not a real challenge to his prowess. Whether he is, or is not, the one singles player America has been needing for the past four or five years will be better illustrated during the next three days.

Once again the draw may have a profound effect upon the trend of the match. Australia will probably prefer Crawford to be drawn first out of the hat as this will not only mean that he will figure in the last match of the series, but will provide him with a little additional rest between the doubles and his second singles.

If the match should depend on the result of the fourth singles, Australia would probably be better served by Crawford than Quist, as the former Wimbledon champion has considerably more match experience and a more equable temperament for such an occasion than either of his colleagues.

Although Budge and Mako constitute such a brilliant doubles combination, it must be heartening to Australia to realise that they stand

INTERPORT LAWN BOWLS TEAM WILL GO TO SHANGHAI

DRAW FOR ANOTHER CHAMPIONSHIP

Hongkong will send a lawn bowls Interport team to Shanghai this year, probably at the end of September as any earlier date clashes with the finish of the league season.

This was decided at a meeting of the Lawn Bowls Association held yesterday when the draw for the Colony singles championship was also made.

It was further decided that the half a dozen outstanding matches in the first round of the pairs competition be played on Tuesday, June 2, and if rain should prevent the programme from being carried out, the all games would automatically be re-arranged for Monday, June 8, on the same greens.

Below will be found the draw for the open singles and the dates for forthcoming ties.

quite a fair chance of winning this match. Tuckey and Hughes last year proved that the Americans are not such formidable doubles players as in years gone by when this particular match was always regarded as being "in the bag" for them.

Nevertheless the tie will probably depend on the singles. The odds are slightly in favour of United States winning, but the margin is not likely to be greater than 3-2.

HE HAD RHEUMATISM SHE WAS TOO FAT—

Both Got Benefit From The Same Remedy

How to keep ugly fat at bay—How to end the misery of headaches—How to abolish rheumatism—How to forget one's years and feel as merry and energetic in one's forties as in one's teens—In other words, how to feel as mortal man, or mortal woman, can feel. That's what you will learn from this letter:—

"My wife started to take Kruschen on account of the severe headaches, etc., from which she suffered periodically. For more than a couple of months now my wife has felt healthy and never once had a 'head.' Moreover, she is losing fat and beginning to feel life is still as gay (at 42) as it used to be 23 years ago, when I first met her. We both take Kruschen every morning—my wife for reducing fat, and myself for rheumatism. I would not be without it."—G. A.

Gently, but surely, Kruschen rideth the system of all fat-forming food refuse, of all poisons and harmful acid which give rise to rheumatism, headaches, and many other ills.

How Doctors Closed Safety-Pin In Baby's Lung

ONE of the most skillful operations known to surgery was performed at King's College Hospital, Denmark Hill, S.E., recently.

It was the removal of an open safety pin from the lung of a 21-months-old baby, Thomas Christy, of Crawley-lane, Oldham, Lancs.

Two attempts to remove the pin had previously been made at the Royal Manchester Children's Hospital, Pendlebury.

An instrument called a laryngoscope is first inserted through the mouth and down the windpipe. This has the effect of straightening the windpipe for the passage of a foot-long instrument called the bronchoscope.

PINHEAD LIGHT

The laryngoscope is lighted by two tiny electric bulbs which shine down the inside of the tube and form a centre spotlight.

The bronchoscope is separately lighted by a bulb no larger than a pinhead. This is fitted on the end of a wire which passes down a groove of the bronchoscope.

The instrument is then pushed down through the centre of the laryngoscope and to the lung, which is located by the bending of the baby's body to the right or left—whichever lung is sought.

Once this instrument is in place the laryngoscope can be removed by sliding off the top section.

INGENIOUS INSTRUMENT

The next operation is to close the safety pin by means of a combined set of forceps and a tube on the end of which is a swivelled ring.

This instrument passes down the centre of the bronchoscope and the forceps, which are two pieces of spring steel opened and closed by the movement of the tube which encloses them, grip the head of the pin while the ring is wedged beneath it over the body of the pin and pulled towards the head, thus closing it.

It is then possible to remove the closed safety-pin through the tube without fear of tearing the wall of the lung.

Best-Dressed Men Lack "Guts"—

—RONALD COLMAN

Hollywood, May 25.

The perennial "ten best dressed men in the world" would be better described as the "ten who lack guts," argues Ronald Colman, one of them, with a fine show of logic.

The modish English actor deals his own set of sartorial laurels to the "ten most courageously dressed men," and bases his decisions on ability to wear four alarm raiment with gusto and ecstacy.

"A well dressed man according to our normally hypocritical standards is one who dresses conservatively," observes Colman, "and nine times out of ten a conservatively dressed man is one who lacks the moral fibre to indulge his gaudy impulses."

"My own secret impulse is to thrust a long, red feather in a tall silk hat, don a purple and white striped blazer over dazzling green shorts, and swagger down Fifth Avenue with all the grandeur of a cannibal chief. But do I do it? No, and why? Because I lack the nerve."

"I haven't even nerve enough to wear the flamboyant neckties that appeal to me. They look fine on other men but I just can't do it."

"Ed Horton, (Edward Everett), working with Colman in 'Lost Horizons', is another pseudo-conservative. He appears in public in the height of what is called 'good taste', but his closets are full of dashing sports clothes he has admired on handsome juveniles, but hasn't the courage to wear himself."

"Clive Brook and Warner Baxter are two other ultra-conservatives who have their secret weaknesses. Away with all such. I give you: 'Lionel Stander, whose shirts speak for themselves."

"Jack Oakie, who likes sweat-shirts and does not fear to wear them, whenever he chooses."

"Bing Crosby, who refuses to be stamped into dress clothes, and who affects checkered caps which are the envy of half Hollywood, (the male half)."

"Lloyd Bacon, for his yellow pants and fitting jacket."

"Clark Gable, for some of the gaudiest sweaters ever seen by human eye."

"Pat O'Brien, whose topcoats can be heard a quarter of a mile."

"Joe Brown, fearless champion of the checkered suit."

"Chester Morris, for the brightest plaids in captivity."

Victor McLaglen, for his sunburst neckties, and

"Low Ayres, for combination sports outfits which not only stand out, but erupt."—United Press.

War Aircraft In Museum

PLANE THAT BROUGHT DOWN ZEPPELIN

RELICS FROM THE RHINE

Four aeroplanes and a seaplane have been transferred from store at the Cardington Airship base in Bedfordshire to the Imperial War Museum in London.

Together with bombs, machine-guns, aeroplane engines, and equipment of all kinds, they will form a new department, at Lambeth where the history of the Royal Air Force (then the Royal Flying Corps) in the Great War will be represented with exhibits which have come direct from the battlefield.

All of the aeroplanes were flown during the War by pilots who performed deeds of heroism which will long live in history. Perhaps the most famous of the new Museum pieces is the Sopwith Camel. It was this machine, piloted by Lieutenant (now Squadron Leader) S. D. Culley, which brought down the Zeppelin "L 85" in flames over the North Sea in August, 1918.

There were no aircraft carriers fitted with flying decks at that time. Consequently, the "Sopwith Camel" had to "take off" from a small barge, which was towed by a destroyer. When something approaching flying speed was reached the aeroplane was released from the small craft and went in search of the enemy airship. After its exploit, of destruction the machine fell into the sea and was rescued by the destroyer.

JUTLAND SEAPLANE

Another interesting exhibit is the 225 h.p. Sunbeam Short seaplane flown by Lieutenant F. J. Rutland at Jutland.

This machine was engaged on reconnaissance duties, and is the only one in existence to have taken part in a major engagement. There is also an experimental machine which was used with marked success in the defence of London against air-raids.

Another interesting relic of the War was discovered on the Rhine when British troops were in occupation of that zone. It is a wheel made entirely of wood, with a diameter of 8ft., and is understood to be one of the landing wheels of a giant German aeroplane. Made in a suburb of Cologne before America came into the War, the story is that the machine was intended to cross to America for propaganda purposes.

Three huge bombs were made during the War. They were known as the 3,300lb. bombs, but the occasion to use them did not arise. They were the largest bombs made by any nation, and were intended for Essen. The Armistice came just in time to spare that town from their devastating effects. One of them, now quite harmless, will be on show when the Museum is opened in July.

It was a Canadian who brought down the famous German airman who was known as the "Red Baron." The engine was taken from his machine and forms one of the Air Force exhibits.

LEATHER SEA- BOOTS GO

By A Naval Correspondent

The old heavy leather sea-boot is gradually passing out of use in the Royal Navy. The rubber Wellington is taking its place.

The change is not welcomed by seamen of the old school. They have been brought up to the leather sea-boot and they prefer it for two reasons. It grips better on wet steel decks and, in the event of a man being washed overboard it is easy to kick off.

But the need for anti-gas precaution has brought the rubber boot into strong favour, and now a new type of sea-boot has been produced. This is dipped in latex and is a great improvement on the old built-up rubber boot which used to crack and peel at the joints with wear.

Anti-gas precautions have also led to something of a boom in oilskins. More oilskins and oilskin suits are being ordered at the present time than ever before.

In the old days ships carried oilskins for only a part of the crew. These were for the most part kept by the boatswain and issued to the seamen when required. Oilskins suits were only issued to boats' crews in bad weather and oilskins to lookouts and other men on watch. Now, however, oilskins suits must be carried for every man whose action station is in a part of the ship which could be reached by mustard gas.

Smiling Through the Gloom

WHY so many Hungarians should have grown suicidal on hearing "Gloomy Sunday" BY SPIKE HUGHES

There seem to be so many other contemporary popular songs more obviously calculated to make the listener go away and end it all. But that is how "Gloomy Sunday" affected the Hungarians, and the song became famous by publicity that is unusual even in these days.

The song has reached England, and, having lived through "The Music Goes Round," we are able to take it. The first recordings are beginning to trickle through, among them Albert Bandier (Columbia FB1300), Alfredo and his orchestra (H.M.V. B5424), Hutch (Parlophone P444), George Boulanger and orchestra (Parlophone P457), Paul Robeson (H.M.V. B5422), Maurice Elwin (Rex B773).

ONE of the major oddities of this world is the habit of fitting words to tunes that were never intended to have words. People will go to almost any trouble to find words for a tune that everybody knows already. However, it is good for trade.

Since we have had Kreisler's violin trifle, "Caprice Viennoise," recorded by most things from the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra to a mouth organ, I couldn't imagine there was any way left in which it could be recorded. And yet, knowing the ways and means of recording companies, there is probably a very sound financial reason for some of the recent titles and stunts put on the wax by Elisabeth Schumann. But it is getting a little monotonous to find a great singer like this constantly singing second-rate songs.

Anybody making a first acquaintance with Schumann during the past year (since her record of "Ave Maria") might well be pardoned for not realising that she is one of the most exquisite singers of Schubert and Mozart in the world.

THE latest slap in the face for those who know and add a vocal version of "Caprice Viennoise" to the list (H.M.V. DA1459).

It is beautifully done, of course, sung like Kreisler would play it, but it's all rather like Dr. Johnson and the walking dog. Why should it have to be done? Are there no good songs that sell?

Millza Korjus, on the other hand, may be in rather a spot. The colorturn repertoire is limited, but surely not so limited that two Chopin Nocturnes have to be transcribed and recorded by her (H.M.V. C2832).

People used to shout about the "jazzing of the classics." I am not sure this "vocal version" habit is not worse. It is not only the composers who are being sacrificed but fine artists as well, intended by nature for higher things.

THE name Vocalion on a gramophone record label will make a number of us old-timers think hard about the good old days. It was on Vocalion that some of the most enterprising things the gramophone industry ever did were issued a decade and more ago.

Now Vocalion has reappeared, and how it is translated! For Vocalion, made by Rex, is a special record series for a special public—that public which demands more and more that music should be "Swing music."

One of the most ironic things about the gramophone industry to-day is that the two most classically least commercial records—those of classical and "swing" music—are the staidest sellers.

Even if you feel you do not like

YOU SHOULD LIKE

ELGAR. Enigma Variations (H.M.V. D2800-02). A new recording by the B.B.C. Symphony Orchestra under Boult. It is good, but not good enough to displace Elgar's own recording from the H.M.V. catalogue.

"THE TOWN TALKS" (H.M.V. B3345). Phyllis Stanley, ex-Cochran showgirl, and sometime Madonna in the last production of "The Miracle," makes her recording debut with Arthur Riscoe in a song from her current show, "You have that extra something."

DIE MEISTERSINGER. Prelude. (H.M.V. C2809). Georg Szell and the London Philharmonic present the first rounds you heard of the 1936 Covent Garden Season.

SADDLE YOUR BLUES TO A

Budapest, the starting point of "Gloomy Sunday," which has now reached this country.

"Swing" music, people who like music will take at once to the lyric charm of "Nightfall" by Benny Carter and his Orchestra (Vocalion No. 4).

Benny Carter is one of the finest musicians in all jazz; a young Negro from U.S.A. who plays most instruments extremely well, writes unusual tunes and scores them in an unusual and original way. You have probably heard his lovely "Blues in my Heart" broadcast by Henry Hall, for whom he is doing a lot of work just now.

There are three other records so far released in this Vocalion series—all good, especially "Night Wind," by Tilt Jordan and the Mob, which includes Teddy Wilson, the great Negro pianist, and "Solitude" by Benny Goodman's Modernists, a collection of white musicians such as America never produced before.

Since these things matter to the fans, a leaflet is given away with these Vocalion records that tells you who plays what in each tune and why. And how.

WILD MUSTANG. One of the few songs about a horse that is alive and kicking. Ridden by Roy Fox (H.M.V. B35043). Isham Jones (Brunswick 02163). The above have arrived.

SWING. Song from "Public Nuisance No. 1." Maybe it's the theme song, it's popular enough already. Recorded by Ambrose (Decca F5919), Jay Wilbur (Rex 8739), Billy Cotton (Regal MR2043). The other boys are a bit slow on the uptake, considering.

ALONE AT A TABLE FOR TWO. Another, more elaborate, way of telling an old, old story. Recorded by Guy Lombardo (H.M.V. B55039), Ted Flo Rito (Decca F5909), Jay Wilbur (Rex 8763), Henry Hall (Columbia FB1342).

END OF STRIKE IN SIGHT

RENAULT FACTORY WINS AGREEMENT

PRELUDE TO SETTLEMENT

Paris, May 29.
An agreement has been reached between a delegation of workers and the directors of the Renault works, one of the big motor car and munitions factories tied up by the "stay-in-strike" of over 8,000 workers.
Altogether forty-five factories employing 80,000 men are affected by the strike.
The Renault agreement is considered a prelude to the end of trouble. The agreement followed numerous talks between members of the Government, the future Prime Minister, M. Leon Blum, and M. Jouhaux, leader of the Workers' Federation. Reuter Special.

BRITISH DEFENCE PROGRESS

BIG FIRMS HELPING GOVERNMENT

London, May 29.
Replying to the debate raised on the House of Commons adjournment by Sir Edward Grigg, who supported the responsibility of the Government in relation to the manufacture and supply of defence requirements, were a heavy and urgent need to warrant the appointment of an additional Minister, Sir Thomas Inskip, Minister for Co-ordination on Defence, argued that the change of responsible direction would not affect the rate of progress in meeting the problems in question.

Of progress already made, he gave as examples the arrangements concluded for the manufacture of air frames and air engines to the Air Ministry. An agreement had been reached with Messrs. Rootes, two of the largest motor undertakings in the country, to erect factories for the production of air frames, and designs and lay-out, including plans for railway sidings, diversion of roads and aerodromes, were already complete and specifications for tenders were about to be issued.
As to engines, seven firms of acknowledged eminence in the manufacture of internal combustion engines—Austin, Rootes, Daimler, Standard, Singer, Rover and Wolseley—were co-operating and had put forward a detailed scheme for securing the necessary output with the absolute minimum of delay. J. P.'S SEAT ON COUNCIL

NOMINATIONS NOW INVITED

It is notified that nominations are invited of a Justice of the Peace to serve on the Legislative Council as a representative of the Justices of the Peace during the absence of the Hon. Sir Henry Follock.
In the event of more than one nomination being received for the vacant office, a meeting of the Justices other than Government officials will be held in the Supreme Court on Friday, June 6, from 12 noon to 1 p.m., for the purpose of electing a Justice of the Peace to be recommended to His Excellency the Governor for appointment as a Member of the Legislative Council. Justices of the Peace who are Government Officials are not entitled to take part in these proceedings.
Every candidate must be nominated in writing by one Justice and seconded by another, and the nomination delivered to Mr. W. Schofield, First Magistrate, not later than Wednesday, June 3.

Estate Duties Increased

RATE FROM ONE TO TWENTY PER CENT.

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend the Estate Duty Ordinance of 1932.

The object of this Bill is to make an increase in the rates of Estate payable in the case of persons dying on or after the 1st July, 1936. The estates of persons dying before that date are to be dealt with under the existing First and Second Schedules to the principal Ordinance. To carry out this object, clause 2 of the Bill substitutes a new definition for "applicable Schedule" and clause 4 adds a new Third Schedule. Clause 3 of the Bill will repeal the present Third Schedule, which provided a Table for use in the calculation of reverential interests which is not required, as well as section 29 of the principal Ordinance which related to it.

The new "Third Schedule" sets out a new table of duty. This ranges from 1 per cent on estates between $500 and $5,000 to 20 per cent on estates of over $20,000,000.

Good Friday Fire In India Church

SALESIAN LOSS

Vatican City, May 24.
The Catholic Cathedral of Shillong, a centre of missionary activity in north-eastern India, was destroyed by fire on Good Friday, April 10, according to a wire just received at the Vatican.

The telegram also adds that the Bishop's house and the new Salesian Seminary were destroyed in the fire. All the buildings were of wood but solidly built in earthquake-proof style. The loss is estimated at several hundred thousand rupees.

No one was injured in the fire but 200 persons have been deprived of living quarters. Sixty-five Salesian students and fifty novices lived in the seminary, almost all Italians who are completing their religious and theological training in the land of their future missionary career.

The cathedral, built before the world war by the German Salesian Fathers who staffed the missions of Assam at that time, was situated on a hill, flanked on one side by the clergy house, and on the other by the Bishop's residence.

The seminary, erected by Monsignor Methias, the present Archbishop of Madras, was a few minutes' walk below the cathedral. United Press.

SMALLEST MOVIE CAMERA

BEING INTRODUCED IN HONGKONG

Universally known as the World's smallest movie camera, the new Film Straight Eight is being introduced to Hongkong by the Bell & Howell Company, of Chicago, manufacturers for the past 28 years of the movie equipment used in producing most of the world's professional photography.

This new personal camera, which is distinguished by its quality, versatility and ease of use, takes 30-foot spools of 8 mm fine-grain panchromatic movie film, costing only $3.95, and this includes processing and post-paid return, ready to project. "This film is long enough for about fifteen movie scenes, thereby bringing new economy and simplicity to the making of quality personal movies. It costs less to operate than a small snapshot camera, yet it produces vivid, true-to-life, motion pictures.

The size of the camera is only 1 1/2 by 5 inches, it is so small and so light (only 1 1/2 pounds) that you'll never be conscious of having it with you until you want to use it. Having no sprockets to thread, it is so easy to load and to use that even the least mechanically-minded, quickly becomes a proficient. And yet it is so expertly designed and so sturdily constructed by Bell & Howell, engineers and craftsmen, that, on home-sized screens, you could never distinguish its movies from those made with a fine 16 mm camera.
Taking movies with the Film 8 mm camera with its fast F-2.5 lens is easy—anyone can get good results right from his first reel. You merely set the lens as directed by the built-in exposure calculator, find your subject in the appglass viewfinder, and press the starting button. What you see, you get!
